EVERY TICKET MUST BE SOLD; GOT YOURS?

American Legion Banquet Brings Back Memories of "Over There"

Our City Comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

Did Our Fire Heroes Die For A Thankless People? Have You Bought Your Ticket?

WORD comes to us today that the people of Glendale have not responded as liberally as expected in buying tickets for the mammoth entertainment which is to be held Tuesday evening, November 6th, in the Tuesday Afternoon club auditorium.

Surley this must be just a case of putting off the buying from day to day. We cannot conceive of Glendale, which has always been so generous, not supporting such a worth-while proposition as this event.

* * *

THE SENTIMENT as used in endeavoring to secure your support. "They might have been yours," should sink into the heart of every Glendale citizen. The price of the tickets should not deter anyone, for these two men, who lost their lives along with many others who were more fortunate, saved our city from a disastrous fire.

These men gave their lives. The least we can do is to support this testimonial; which is given in order to provide funds to aid the families who depended upon these men for their support.

* * *

THIS APPEAL should be met with a hearty response without the necessity of our going into any other reason justifying your attendance. Surely it is the duty of every loyal citizen to buy a ticket if possible, even to the sacrificing of something else. The entertainment will be worth considerable more in dollars and cents than the actual price of the tickets of admission, with an array of motion picture star such as the following: Will Rogers, Lionel Belmore, Clara Kimball Young, Ruth Roland, Lucille Cavanaugh, Wanda Hawley, Louise Dresser, Jack Gardner, Herbert Rawlinson, Bill Desmond, Milton Sills, Ernest Torrence, Lew Cody, Hedda Hopper, Agnes Ayres, Arthur Stuart Hull, Shirley Mason, Viola Dana.

ALL of these will be seen on the same stage, each giving his or her kind of a display of talent. This will be worth going many miles to witness. Most of our readers have probably seen plays in which some of these were the stars and seeing them in person will be quite a treat. Tickets for this benefit entertainment can be secured in many places, among them the office of the Daily Press.

This is a proposition that should be supported by all Glendale and Eagle Rock citizens, without compelling the promoters to go elsewhere to place the tickets. If you have not already purchased your ticket, do so at once and help assure the success of the undertaking.

MONTANA MURDERER SENTENCED TO HANG

[By Associated Press]

BOZEMAN, Mont., Oct. 27.—Only executive clemency can save Seth O. Danner from the steel death trap built into the Gallatin county jail. Unless the governor intervenes, the first hanging in this county in more than 18 years will take place, probably within 90 days.

Danner was found guilty last night of having murdered Mrs. John Sprouse of Mobridge, S. D., the penalty being fixed by the jury at death. The jurors came to an agreement after being out seven hours.

Danner seems bitterly resentful of the testimony given by his former wife, who Danner, as a step father, had reared from the age of two and a half years to 15, when he married her 24 hours before the birth of a child.

The call was issued in connection with the observance of world court week from November 5 to Armistice Day, designated as World Court Sunday.

LEGION'S ANNUAL BANQUET HUGE SUCCESS

Rations Were Fine, and Program Could Not Be Surpassed

Ex-service men of this vicinity enjoyed their annual banquet last night at the Tuesday Afternoon club house under the aspices of Post No. 127 of the American Legion.

James C. Collins of Long Beach, commander of the American Legion for the Department of California, was the speaker of the occasion. His address was preceded by speeches by Supervisor Henry W. Wright of South Pasadena and Daily Stafford, chairman of hospitalization for the Department of California.

A spirit of good fellowship pervaded the occasion from the time the comrades "parked" their "helmets" in the check-room "dugout." Reminiscenses of experiences in "No man's land," on the high seas and in "Paree" were recounted while the veterans stood at ease waiting for the mess call. When the zero hour arrived, they were not slow to fall in, climb through the doorway and struggle over the entanglements of chairs to the tables, which they captured with satisfaction. From their strategic positions they were able to fight a victorious battle against the victuals. After the miniature flag had been hauled down from the patriotic ice cream, cigars were passed by Comrade Emil Frug, a smoke screen was thrown up and buddies settled down to an evening of enjoyment, content to realize that reveille now does not sound quite so early or quite so loud.

Just one note of sadness tinged the jollity of the banquet. This was a loving remembrance of Comrade Clarence Edwards, member of the local post, who "went west" serving his community in the recent forest fire. A high tribute to his character was paid by Toastmaster Dwight W. Stephenson, who eulogized him as "a loyal son, a true brother and a faithful comrade." In his hoonr all present stood with bowed heads just before the call to fall out.

The Euterpean male quartet sang several groups of songs, each one of which was well applauded. Selections by this quartet consisted of a combination of popular and classical numbers: "Swing Along," "The Sand Man," "Kentucky Babe," "Jerusalem Morn," and others.

"Bill" Hatch of Altadena, pianist, and Arthur Raymond Hill of Los Angeles, soloist, radio artists, also called for a lot of applause. They interpreted a number of popular numbers.

Instrumental harmony was furnished by a quartet of brothers from Los Angeles, using Hawaiian instruments. Their numbers included "Hilo March," "La Golindrina," "Honolulu March," "Hawaiian Smiles," "Pali Kiki Blues" and "Aloha."

KENNETH ROAD EXTENSION TO BE OPEN BY NOV. 10

Keneth road between Grand View avenue and the Burbank city limits probably will be paved and open to traffic by November 10.

Announcement of this fact was made by City Engineer Ben F. Dupuy at last night's session of the City Council.

Contractor E. L. Fleming of 1007 Boynton street was granted a 30-day extension in which to complete this job. Upon inquiry by Councilman C. E. Kimlin it was explained by Mr. Dupuy that the work has been held up through delay in the delivery of the necessary rock.

SOPHOMORE AND FROSH GIRLS IN ANNUAL STUNT

Again was the girls' gym of Glendale High the scene of a wonderful costume ball when girls of the freshmen and sophomore classes gave their annual stunt party Friday evening.

The crowd was denser than it was a week ago for the lower classes are larger than the upper ones. Not less than 300 were in attendance and the costumes showed the originality and ingenuity of which only clever girls like these are capable. One of the stars of the evening was Barbara Kranz, president of the sophomore class, dressed as a young man with a downy moustache and suggestion of sideburns.

The class stunt presented by freshmen was also seasonal, a supposed football skirmish between "The Ancients" and "The Moderns." The team first mentioned was draped with goat skins, the opponents being garbed in very up-to-date football togs and masks.

The faculty's stunt was the same as last week except for the addition of a very clever clown dance introduced as "Toto, the Leaping Flea of Naples," by Miss Myrtle Pulliam. Miss Cory was the honoree of several yells.

Costumes in the Hallowe'en colors were numerous. There were old-fashioned girls and new-fashioned ones, Arab sheiks who looked bold and bad enough to abduct a whole class of girls, pages, farmers, sunbonnet girls, cadets, Spanish duennas, Italian men and maids, all scarecrows, all of whom made the task of the costume judges difficult, but no one questioned the justice of the award when first honors were bestowed upon Daisy Whitesell, dressed as a toothless but energetic and frivolous old woman with mismated shoes and a generally rakish air.

The Nelson sisters carried off the prize waltz award. As at the last party Al'ie Mae Lantz, who is a comparatively newcomer in Glendale presided at the piano for the dance music, assisted by Helen Anderson as drummer. Miss Lantz plays entirely by ear but does it extraordinarily well.

CONVEY 300 HIVES OF BEES 1200 MILES

This Was Remarkable Task of F. R. Buchanan and Helper

Conveying 300 hives of bees 1200 miles by rail with the temperature ranging from 95 to 110 degrees without losing a single hive is a feat accomplished this summer by F. R. Buchanan of 242 North Orange street, one of the leading beekeepers in the state. Never before in the history of beekeeping in California has such a feat been performed.

The bees were packed in freight cars, the hives being crated on 2x4 timbers. They were moved from Glendale into the Star thistle country in Butte county, which is situated in the northern part of the state. Each leg of the trip was 600 miles in length.

The purpose of moving the bees was to keep them from starving, this being a very poor bee pasture year in the southern part of California. By making the move, however, Mr. Buchanan not only kept his bees alive, but also brought back with him a carload of thistle honey, which is about the most popular honey available. The bees were kept in that northern country for five months. The start from Glendale was made on June 1st.

With Mr. Buchanan on this trip was Walter Tursenbeck, an expert botanist, who secured over 100 fine specimens among them several unusually good samples of the Star thistle, which is a very heavy honey producer.

While away Mr. Buchanan combined business with pleasure. He says he had some very fine hunting and fishing, the streams around where he was located being unusually well stocked with gamey trout.

After his several months away Mr. Buchanan says he is mighty glad to get back to Glendale. Nowhere can the climate equal that of this place, he declared. In that northern country at times the past summer the thermometer registered 117 in the shade.

"But no one was compelled to stay in the shade," says Mr. Buchanan.

MAIN COMMITTEE WELFARE CHEST HOLDS MEETING

Seeks to Consolidate All Philanthorpic Giving in One

At a meting of the Budget and Indorsement committee of the Glendale Welfare chest held Friday morning at the Chamber of Commerce, it was agreed that all chirtable and welfare agencies that have heretofore received the support of Glendale philanthropists be invited to communicate with the committee, and Secretary Burton McGinnis was instructed to mail the following letter to all such organizations of which he has record and also to publish same in the newspapers of the city:

"It is the desire of the Budget and Indorsement committee that you submit for its consideration a brief written statement of your receipts and disbursements for your last fiscal year and your tentative budget for the coming year; also a brief outline of the scope of your activities in Glendale and elsewhere. If deemed advisable or necessary by the committee, you will later be given an opportunity to have your representative appear before the committee and give such further information as may be desired."

The list of agencies heretofore supported in Glendale and their approximate budgets on the records of the committee are the following, which represent only approximately the amounts collected and disbursed last year, according to the best knowledge and belief of the committee. It totals $26,900. There are probably others that will receive consideration and for the purpose of getting in touch with such agencies, the above letter is being sent out.

Y. M. C. A.	$ 6,200
Boy Scouts	8,000
War Mothers	2,500
Welfare Council	1,000

Catholic Charities	1,000
Jewish Charities	100
Red Cross	2,000

Responses that may be received to the letter will be carefully considered by the committee and then passed on to the board of directors with recommendations for the action of that body.

CAVANAH RECITAL LAST NIGHT MOST SATISFYING

The finished manner in which the 22 numbers on the program of the Cavanah Studio pupils' recital were given at the Congregational church Friday night was most satisfying to the large number of parents and friends attending. Tonight the Cavanah Studio will furnish several numbers of entertainment at the Hallowe'en masquerade dance to be given by Glendale Post No. 127, American Legion, at the Legion Hall, 610 E. Broadway. Miss Jean McLain, pupil of Marcella Webb, will dance "Gavotte Charmante." There will be vocal numbers by Miss Mabel Carrow and readings by Miss Ruth Stine and Miss Marguerite Anderson. Miss Edith Carrow will be the piano accompanist.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY'S ANNUAL PRAISE SERVICE

Members of the Missionary society of the Tropico Presbyterian church held their annual praise service Friday afternoon beginning with a luncheon at which covers were laid for about 30. Following a short business session, Miss Lawson spoke most interestingly about educational mission work in India, where she was a teacher at Jahnse for several years.

The treasurer's report proved of unusual interest in that it showed receipts for six months almost equal to the appropriation for the whole year.

NITTA EXPECTS TO BE RELEASED ON BAIL

T. Nitta of rural route No. 1 is expected to be released from the headquarters jail this afternoon on $600 cash or $1500 property bail. He was arraigned yesterday afternoon before Judge Harry Chase on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated, a felony. He was arrested by F. E. Miller of 615 Fisher street about 9:40 a. m. Thursday while approaching Glendale avenue on Colorado street.

FATHERS' NIGHT AT BROADWAY SCHOOL

Hallowe'en Setting, Pumpkin Pie, Cider and Doughnuts

A beautiful Hallowe'en setting was provided for the "Fathers' Night" with which the husbands of members of the Broadway P.-T. A. were entertained Friday evening at the school. Ghostly figures were to be seen in all recesses but the 150 guests were fear proof and enjoyed themselves to the full. The stage had been charmingly decorated with flowers in the Hallowe'en colors and with jack-o-lanters. Mrs. Mary Reese, chairman of the evening, called the assembly to order and expressed the pleasure experienced by the organization she represented in entertaining the fathers and teachers. She dwelt upon the need for the co-operation of fathers and mothers in promoting the welfare of the schools.

Ernest Tucker, director of Community Service, led in a much enjoyed program of community singing, which was followed by program umbers. Marie Chandler Lindsey contributed a piano solo. Mrs. E. B Moore, president of the P.-T. A. federation, praised the Broadway fathers for their work last year and gave a humorous reading; R. M. Ferguson, member of the Broadway Auxiliary, gave an excellent talk on the duties of fathers in connection with the P.-T. A. and announced that the first meeting of the Fathers' Auxiliary would be held on the evening of November 2 at 8 p. m. in the Broadway school.

Judge Sidney N. Reeve, chief speaker of the evening, reviewed in an interesting way the work of the Juvenile court and emphasized the necessity of giving the child the right foundation.

A very large pumpkin pie, decorated in the Hallowe'en colors, was presented by Mrs. Reese on behalf of the executive board, to the principal, Mrs. Mary Ogden Ryan and her staff of teachers with a little speech in which she voiced appreciation of the co-operation of committees and teachers in making the evening such a success. Mrs. Ryan graciously responded and thanked the fathers for their splendid work last year.

Pumpkin pie, doughnuts and cider were then served during the social hour that followed the program.

RAPID PROGRESS IN WORK ON THE NEW ELECTRIC LINE

Following is taken from the daily report to the press of the state by the Railroad Commission:

Los Angeles & Salt Lake Railroad company has applied to the Railroad Commission for authority to construct a passing track at grade on Glendale avenue in the City of Glendale, Los Angeles county.

This certainly shows progress on the new electric railway connection between Glendale and Los Angeles. Most of the poles to carry the trolley line are set, and things are moving rapidly in construction affairs.

TUESDAY CLUB'S DANCE FINE AFFAIR

Beautiful Hallowe'en Setting, All Special Patrons Are Present

A beautiful setting was provided for the Hallowe'en dance given at the Tuesday Afternoon club Thursday evening under the auspices of Community Service with all the special patrons of these dances in attendance. When Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson, who has been confined to her home for some time with a broken leg, appeared, she received quite an ovation. Mrs. Hutchinson has been chairman of this department of community service, and until laid low by her accident, was one of the most active promoters of these social affairs for the young people of Glendale.

At the door to welcome the 200 costumed guests who responded to the invitation were Mrs. C. H. Houston and Mrs. C. C. Cooper in ghostly array. The first sight to meet the eye on entering the reception hall was a witch's cauldron in a setting of corn stalks. In the palm room were more corn stalks, bales of hay and piles of pumpkins, all the lights being sheathed in paper jack-o-lanterns of pumpkin yellow, with streamers of the same color twined and criss-crossed with black to emphasize the hallowe'en motif and black cat silhouettes on the walls. A similar scheme dominated the decorations of the ball room which was exceptionally lovely. Miss Bessie Hale of the chamber of commerce was chairman of the decorating committee and is entitled to credit for the charming effect.

Mrs. E. S. McKee, who headed the general committee of arrangements was assisted by Mrs. Cooper, Mrs. Houston, Mrs. W. A. Kulp, Mrs. Emory A. Troth and Mrs. Mae Rosenberg, who were responsible for the weird stunts put on by the ghosts who appeared when the lights went out about the middle of the evening and invited guests to repair to the tea room to have their fortunes told.

Mrs. John D. Case had charge of the floor and Miss Ruth Ryan of the serving of punch. As usual excellent music was furnished by the California Oriole orchestra and the party in all respects was one of the most successful the committee has given since its organization. While most of the guests were in costume, there was no masking.

C. W. DUDLEY HOME FROM EASTERN TRIP

Visits Childhood Haunts, Brings Back Relics of Olden Time

To celebrate their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary and also to take a look into the years that are now classed as "history," Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Dudley of 206 Milford street, enjoyed a jaunt to eastern states during the past summer. Thursday night Mr. Dudley returned to Glendale, mighty glad to be at the old family fireside, while Mrs. Dudley remained in Chicago to care for an invalid mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Dudley were members of Shriners that went east during the latter part of May to attend the Imperial Council meeting of the Masonic order, which was held in Washington, D. C., the first week of June. A wonderful time at this annual meeting of Shriners is reported by Mr. Dudley.

After the close of the meeting Mr. and Mrs. Dudley visited in various cities in the east, including New York, Boston and many cities in Pennsylvania. The trip covered about 7500 miles and a space of about five months. It was made strictly for pleasure and recreation.

The bright spot of the whole trip was the stay in Mehoopany, Pa., where Mr. Dudley, his father and his great-grandfather were born and raised. He met a cousin who is 93 years of age is healthy and strong and still doing her own housework. He also met friends who were playmates of his father when he was a boy. He located the grave of his great-grandfather. Quite a number of friends he had known in his childhood were visited by Mr. Dudley.

While in Mehoopany Mr. Dudley went through several of the old trunks filled with relics which were left by his parents and his grandparents, and quite a few of these old-time keepsakes he brought back home. Among these is an old time Paul Revere lantern, in which a candle is used. This lantern is tall and round with a steep-pitched "roof," and is punctured on all sides by small holes. It is through these that the light filters. It was used on the Dudley farm for many years.

Several old shawls, knit by his grandparents and extremely valuable, were also secured, as were flax looms and other old-time relics of more than ordinary interest.

REPORT OF OFFICER'S DEATH "GREATLY EXAGGERATED"

The Glendale Press is glad to be able to deny a rumor circulating to the effect that Motorcycle Officer Baugh, who was injured a few days ago in a collision while pursuing a speeder, so far from being dead is doing nicely at the Glendale sanitarium, where he was taken after the accident, and is making an excellent recovery.

GRID WARRIORS BANQUETED BY HI-Y CLUB

Clean Sportsmanship Was Underlying Theme of Talks Given

"Clean Sportsmanship" as exemplified in the football game between Glendale and Citrus high schools Friday afternoon, was the underlying theme of the talks given at the banquet for the members of the teams by the Glendale Hi-Y club following the game. Over 100 were present at this banquet, which was served by the members of Miss Hanson's domestic science classes. The art department of the school had made the place cards and the decorations carried out the Hallowe'en spirit. The clean game played yesterday was most favorably commented on by all present.

Theodore Haig, president of the Glendale Hi-Y, greeted both teams. He acted as toastmaster for the banquet. Roney West, captain of the Glendale team, made a fine talk on "Shoulder to Shoulder." This was responded to by the captain of the Citrus team, Morris, and also George Ray, president of the Citrus Hi-Y, who spoke on the "Value of the Hi-Y." Mr. Brewster of the high school faculty gave a reading, "Tony at the Baseball Game." Coach Hayhurst of Glendale spoke on "Good Sports" and Coach Sturgess of Citrus on "Team Work in School. Vice-principal Ferguson, who spoke in the absence of Mr. Moyse, who had to leave the banquet early, had as his topic, "Team Work in the Community." Mr. Clark, assistant coach at Citrus, gave a talk on "Team Work in Administration." The importance of school spirit and "What School Spirit Means," was the topic of the talk by Coach Butterfield of Glendale. He said, "The kind of school spirit you have now indicates the kind of life you will lead, so it is quite essential that the right kind of school spirit be developed."

Yells for Glendale, Citrus, etc., were conducted both by Citrus yell leaders and also Denny Berman, yell leader for Glendale. The benediction was given by L. C. MacDonald, Y. M. C. A. secretary of Citrus. Music during the evening was furnished by the Hi-Y orchestra, the members of which include Harold Jones, Clifford Wolcott, Boyd Taylor, Dallas Kalbaugh, Kenneth Lee and Everett Anderson.

JOHN W. COTTON SPEAKS AT ART CLUB MEETING

John W. Cotton, etcher and painter, was the speaker at the social meeting of the Glendale Art club held Friday night at the public library on Harvard street with Mrs. Roy Ballagh, president, in charge. Mr. Cotton's topic was "Early American Art," on which he is giving a series of three lectures. The first was given Friday and took up the period from 1825 to 1840. The next lecture will cover the period from 1840 to 1870 and the last will be from 1870 to the present time.

He said in part: "The early paintings were mostly portrait or religious pictures. Most of the men were students of Reynolds of England, who was one of the greatest eductors and painters of that age." Mr. Cotton also spoke of the work of Gilbert Stuart, who painted most of the portraits of Washington. He also told of Leslie, who was one of the big illustrators of the early age and illustrated most of the Shakespeare stories. The next meeting of the Glendale Art club will be held on Sunday, November 4 at 4 p. m. at the public library.

THE BOND OF LANGUAGE

In his plea for peace Lloyd George lays great stress on the necessity of unity between English-speaking peoples. He is presenting strong arguments, because he has a case so strong, that mere presentation of the truth is argument enough. In time of war Americans and the British showed how they were inspired by common impulse; how they could join forces to save themselves and the world. Without this understanding, there might have been by this time one nation ruling all the earth. There would have been no free peoples.

The struggle presents differing phases now. The power that then was a menace, can threaten no more. Yet civilization has not been restored to normal. The malignant spirit brooding over wide areas, still seeks by military strength to enforce the mandates of its greed. A specific danger has been removed, to be replaced by a thousand other dangers. It is impossible for prosperity to return, or for seedtime and harvest to follow in succession, while the energies of nations are devoted to promoting violence, and making trade impossible. Thus the problems remain almost as great as they had been when war fever raged in two continents.

Complete understanding, amity, mutual support, as between the United States and England, would be the strongest conceivable combination of two units. It would be a moral force of vast influence. It would have to be reckoned with by all the rest of the nations, and probably the greater among these nations would be glad to join to insure safety not to themselves alone, but to all. That a war-worn world should go on adding to the weight of its burden, naturally has prompted question as to its sanity. Aloofness is a theory only. No people may be aloof from all the rest. Such position, however much defended as desirable, is beyond attainment. Such peoples as abhor war could say with perfect logic after reaching an understanding, that there shall be no more war so far as they are concerned. And then none would dare attack them.

To the late Walter Hines Page, when embassador to England, fell the honor of emphasizing the principles which Lloyd George is expounding so ably. Mr. Page used to talk to British statesmen as Mr. George is talking now to the public. He did more to promote friendship of the two kindred powers than has been accomplished by any other individual however highly placed in either government. Mr. George is engaged in carrying on the good work. The world owes him gratitude for his efforts.

LOOKING FAR AHEAD

A news item tells of seven families from the little village of Old Orchard, Maine, now on their way to southern California. Several more families are expected to start before the coming of cold weather. The census gives Old Orchard a population of 1100. The indications are that the census of 1930 will give it less.

There is a vast difference between the hostile and bitter climate of Maine and that which is proving to be such a lure for bringing people to southern California. In respect of seasonal comforts there can be no doubt this region excels any other within the United States. People are coming so fast, and have been for such a period, that, even when times were hard elsewhere, there never has bn a slacking of activity. It was this that made southern California the "white spot on the financial map." It has been blessed by the continuous presence of prosperity. Nor does there appear any reason for expecting changed conditions. Rather, present conditions are likely to be accentuated.

Southern California welcomes the families from Old Orchard. But what does Old Orchard think about the matter? If its population drifts away, taking with it much capital, leaving behind it untenanted dwellings, reducing the local volume of business, it must behold the exodus with emotions the opposite of satisfactory.

In this connection Old Orchard is used as a type. The rush to this favored part of the country must affect many other communities precisely as it affects the little town in Maine.

The population of this state is growing tremendously, and it does not pause. The desirable people who arrive by thousands have removed themselves from the soil on which they grew, perhaps have brought with them for investment here, the savings of busy and industrious careers. All very fine for the Pacific coast. But is it not time to think of the future point, the inevitable point of saturation? California is capable of supporting millions more than it now holds. As these millions come, they must leave gaps. Maine, for instance, is not overcrowded. In other words, it is possible to see, still at a great distance, a time when the population may not be distributed to the best economic advantage. California, if as densely peopled as some countries, might contain all the present residents of the United States. But it is essential that the whole country be developed by the processes of a common growth. Perhaps in the far future, the tide may set eastward again, reclaiming as it goes, the areas neglected in questing for the golden charm of the Pacific border.

MANHATTAN'S PLUM TREE

November 6 ten justices of the supreme court, each to draw a salary of $17,500, will be elected in New York city. These judges are to sit only in Manhattan and the Bronx. The tribunal is not a court of appeal, as might be inferred from the title it carries, but of original jurisdiction. The judgeships are regarded as political prizes, and it is customary for unfit gangsters to scramble for them. Seldom is there a plum tree laden to a luscious fulness so recalling the days of the good Mr. Quay, and his habit of shaking the fruit into the upturned palms of the faithful.

This far from the metropolis probably only a casual interest is taken in the contest, albeit it presents points likely to engage attention. The fact will be taken for granted, such view sustained by precedents, that the candidates do not reply upon ability as jurists, but upon pull as party men. Their relations to Tammany, for example, count far more than their relations to probity, knowledge, or judicial experience.

It is diverting, however, to observe that Hearst is backing the candidates that Tammany is opposing. He is saying very unkind things about that organization, perhaps remembering the times that it has bumped him off his high horse, permitting him to hit the ground with a thud. Hearst goes so far as to intimate that Tammany is not pure. He regards the Tammany candidates as puppets, he says. This does not imply that he objects to puppets per se, but to stand well in his esteem, they must be his puppets.

Politically the metropolis, however much the citizenry may be struggling towards a high plane, has not won to the status of respectability. To verify this it is needful only to realize the spectacle of two groups fighting for places on the supreme bench, one group backed by Tammany and the other by Hearst.

Some family skeletons are padded beyond recognition.

Cheap notoriety often turns out to be an expensive luxury.

SADISM IN DISCIPLINE

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

Last night I read a curious sentence:

"More even than most preachers he became an unconscious sadist; he wished his sermons to hurt his audience whether they should ultimately benefit them or not."

Estelle Lawton Lindsey

The writer was Edwin Muir and he was referring to Frank Wedekind, the German dramatist.

He might, however, well have been referring to the majority of those who have charge of the discipline of their fellows, whether they be parents or jailors, bosses or wardens, reformers or professors of high and low degree.

Unfortunately discipline the world over is losing its place in the lives of individuals, families and nations; and unquestionably a portion of the contempt in which it is held arises from the fact, unconsciously recognized by all, that the disciplinarian has too often been an unconscious sadist.

Sadism is at the bottom of the "third degree"; it is the root and ground of mass indifference to the fate of convicts; it instigates the savage abuses which from time to time disgrace the management of state institutions such as insane asylums, poor farms and county hospitals.

The flogging of children has from time immerial been "rationalized" as an "unpleasant duty" performed reluctantly "for the good of the child," when the plain truth has always been that the child was whipped because the parental sense of authority had been outraged. If in addition to hurting the child the punishment ultimately benefited him, well and good; but first of all it must hurt him.

Unspeakable conditions exist in many penitentiaries because the people want convicts hurt, they "deserve it." It is doubtful if any warden who ever ordered a convict into a straight jacket or had him flogged seriously considered himself as an emissary of reform. He wanted discipline after his own conception of it and he trusted to fear to secure it.

The attendant who mauls a poor unfortunate lunatic has no thought of the insane man's good. He is trying to hurt him because he has been troublesome.

Why not admit these things and start out valiantly to change them?

The world is jazzing down to perdition today because discipline is out of countenance. What we need is a new method of discipline and a new psychology in regard to it, a method of thinking that will scorn revenge as an instrument of evil and concern itself solely with the welfare of the creature disciplined and the social results that will accrue from teaching people to govern themselves.

And we never can teach people to govern themselves so long as we secretly wish to hurt them, whether or not we ultimately benefit them. Let's try to benefit them without hurting them, and so save our souls alive.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

This morning the boys of our American Legion post tottered by on parade. Tottered, I said. Tottered. Some of them walked as if the balls of their feet had swollen.

"What's the matter with them guys, anyhow?" asked the man at my elbow of the man at his elbow. The other one chewed reflectively on a straw.

"Some of 'em are all right at that," said he.

I had been sort of cheering inside of me, and figuratively taking off my hat, and indulging in a lot of human emotions up to this moment. Sure enough, something was the matter. Nothing used to be the matter with them. When they swung down the street, two or three years ago, my heart used to skip beats regularly, just for pure joy. No soldier in the world marches like an American soldier. He is as near the poetry of motion as a man can get.

"They ain't any fattern'th other guys of their age," said the good-hearted man. The more acid one grunted.

"They look fatter," he said. "In them uniforms. Mebbe it's because they used to look so different."

That's it. A fat man looks all right in a motor car. In an O. D. uniform, issued to him when he was as snappy and dangerous as a crack of lightning he invites mirth. If he pulls up the slack of the trousers he's wrong. If he lets it drag he's worse. Fattened up, he makes one think of the grandmas one sees wearing khaki pants in tourist camps. Words can say no more. The good old language stops right there.

I'm a ridiculous crab, no doubt. But it seems to me the boys of the Legion owe a duty to the rest of us. They showed us what perfection in manhood can be. When they were fit they could not be hurt by scythes, cyclones, falling trees, freezing rains or petulant M. P.'s.

Maybe it isn't to the rest of us they owe that duty. Maybe they owe it to themselves.

"FRENCH MUSIC" IS PROGRAM TOPIC OF MUSIC SECTION

"French Music" was the topic of a very interesting program presented Friday afternoon to the members of the music section of the Tuesday Afternoon club in the auditorium of the clubhouse. Mrs. Warren Roberts, curator, presided at a short business session preceding the program, at which time announcement was made of plans for the music section's booth at the coming society circus. Hostesses for the various meetings of the section were requested to confer with Mrs. Barton preceding the time of their meetings to arrange for serving refreshments. Announcement was made of the Orpheus club concert to be given under the auspices of the Glendale Commandery of Knights Templar on November 1.

Mrs. Roberta T. Young who had charge of the program read a short excerpt on the history of French music. The program opened with a vocal selection from the opera, "Joan of Arc" (Tschaikowsky) by Mrs. Roscoe Puffer, Jr., accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Gertrude Erb. This was followed by the "Scarf Dance" (Chaminade) evolved especially for the occasion by Mrs. Pearl Keller and presented by four of her pupils, Cecilia Mae Fischer, Helen Orr, Evelyn and Leona Hunt, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Erb. Mary Kirby played a violin solo of "The Swan" (Saint-Saens), accompanied at the piano by her teacher, Miss Hazel Linkogel. George Cooper, who has been associated with several grand opera companies. was one of the treats of the afternoon. He gave two numbers "L'heure Exquise" and "Si Mes Vers Avaient des Ailes" (Reynaldo Hahn). Mrs. Gretna Cordary, pupil of Mrs. Virginia Freeman, gave a very interesting vocal interpretation of "Florian's Song" (Godar).

A very delightful surprise was given the sixty guests by Miss Hazel Linkogel, who is well known as a talented violinist, who graciously consented to play a piano solo, "Fantasie Impromptu in C Sharp Minor" (Chopin). At the close of the program the members adjourned to the tea room where tea and cake were served. Mrs. C. L. Marlenee acted as hostess for the social hour.

MONTROSE NOTES

Mrs. L. G. Marsh, proprietor of the cash grocery store situated on Montrose avenue, has disposed of the business to Mr. Nelson, a recent arrival from Des Moines, Iowa, who will take over the property within the week. Mr. Nelson has had many years of experience in the grocery business and will no doubt build up a very large trade. Mrs. Marsh is giving up the work because of ill health.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Clark of Los Angeles were visitors in Montrose Thursday. The Clarks have purchased property in this vicfnity and expect to build here within the near future. They formerly resided in Chicago.

W. F. Sprinkle and family from Redondo Beach, Friday took possession of their beautiful new home on Michigan avenue. The property was purchased through the firm of Carter & Griffith of Montrose, at an approximate cost of $10,000.

A delightful affair of the next week will be the Hallowe'en dance and "pumpkin pie party" to be given at the Briggs Terrace dance hall on Wednesday evening. The residents of Longview Acres and Briggs Terrace will join in making the evening one of fun and pleasure for all who attend.

An open meeting of the board of directors of the Montrose chamber of commerce was held last evening for the purpose of further discussing the matter of incorporation. The committee on investigation reports that progress is being made and special efforts are being taken to secure the opinions of all residents of the community. Thursday next the Montrose organization will meet with the La Crescenta Improvement association in the La Crescenta schoolhouse, at which time all interested are invited to attend and join in the discussion.

Rev. Charles A. Aber and family of Glendale yesterday purchased a delightful little home in Montrose and are losing no time in becoming located here. The Abers are well known in Glendale, where they have many friends, and they will no doubt be welcomed in Montrose and vicinity.

Mr. Grant McCormick reports that rapid progress is being made on his new office and store building being erected as an addition to his property on Montrose avenue, just off of Honolulu. The addition will be 24 by 40 feet, and will be desirable for store and office space. It has a cement floor and will be finished on the outside in white stucco. The work will be completed within a week or ten days. Mr. McCormick is owner of the Montrose barber shop.

HERE ARE SOME OF THOSE 20 SCIOT CLOWNS. AREN'T THEY PRETTY?

Tonight is the very last chance to see the wonderful Sciot circus that has brought so much enjoyment to the people of Glendale and vicinity during the past few days. Besides the 20 clowns there are many genuine circus acts, good side shows and everything else that goes with the "big top." And the admission fee is only 10c.

Central Labor Union of Glendale has made plans for a dance and Hi Jinks party to be given tonight, October 27, at the I. O. O. F. hall. For those who do not care to dance there will be card tables and other forms of entertainment. Lucky spot dances and good music will be another feature.

MRS. CAMPBELL AT PRESIDENTS' COUNCIL IN L. A.

Mrs. Daniel Campbell, president of the Tuesday Afternoon club of Glendale, attended the presidents' council of the Los Angeles district held on Thursday at the Pathfinders' club at Compton, of which Mrs. Shepard is president. It was announced there that Mrs. Charles H. Toll, district president, cannot accept any invitations to go to the different clubs after March 15.

Children's book week was announced for November 11 to 17 and it was urged that the children each be allowed to earn a book that week. It was also suggested that the clubs have each motion picture house show during that week a picture that has been made from some good book, so that it might be visualized for the young people.

On November 12 and 13 the district will hold an international relations conference at the First Baptist church, 727 South Flower street, Los Angeles. Mrs. Winters, president of the General Federation of Women's clubs of the United States, will be the speaker on international relations on the evening of November 13. The morning sessions begin at 10 o'clock and the evening meetings at 8.

It was stated that it was desired for the women's clubs, through their public health departments, to take an active interest in the public health of their cities on such questions relative to sewers, sanitation of automobile camps, etc. H. L. Kirby was one of the speakers at the conference, his topic being "Narcotics." Mrs. Atwood, who is the national chairman for Indian welfare, was also a speaker. Mrs. J. Sartori, chairman for biennial, and Mrs. Frank Gibson, publicity chairman for the biennial, were among those present. Mrs. Sartori's address will be Room 69, 514 South Grand avenue, Los Angeles, and information regarding the biennial may be secured from her.

NEW OLDSMOBILE SIX PRANCES HOME—A VICTOR

OVERLAND IS MOST FOR MONEY SAYS SMITH

The new Overland at the new low price is characterized by Smith-Slan, Inc., 226 South Brand, local Overland and Willys-Knight dealers, as "the most automobile in the world for the money."

This firm says it has six special outstanding advantages over any other car in the market.

It enumerates them as follows: Unequaled economy, bigger and much more powerful engine, easiest riding triplex springs, all-steel touring body, durable and brilliant baked enamel finish.

"But how can they offer a bigger and more powerful automobile for less money?" asked one inquisitive visitor to a Willys-Overland showroom.—

"If their former model was smaller and cost more, what's the answer? There must be a catch in it somewhere."

"The fact that you are offered a bigger car for less money proves that they are getting where they started to go."

"CANNONBALL" BAKER IN NEW "OLDS" COMPLETES CROSS-COUNTRY JAUNT

Lands in Glendale on Trip From New York to Los Angeles After Covering 6169 Miles; All in High Gear; This Feat Is History Maker

NEW "OLDS" SIX AVERAGES 28 MILES GALLON

Only Eighteen Ounces of Oil Were Used on Trip; Three Punctures Only Tire Trouble; Grades of 21 Per Cent Successfully Made; Roads Rough

Driving a new Oldsmobile six en route from New York to Los Angeles, in high gear, "Cannonball" Baker arrived here at 9:45 o'clock today and after a short stop at the local salesroom of C. H. Hunter, 208-10 West Broadway, local dealers, left on his way for the Pacific coast.

Up to the time it reached Glendale this car had traveled 6169 miles. The average mileage to Needles was 27½ per gallon of gasoline. Baker stated that he expected to average 28 miles per gallon for the entire trip.

Between New York and Glendale 18 ounces of oil was used out of 30 quarts put into the machine. The crankcase of the car was drained five times and at the following places: Indianapolis, Kansas City, La Junta, Albequerque and Flagstaff.

Three punctures marred the trip. These were all in the right rear tire.

The highest grade—21 per cent—was encountered in Pennsylvania, while the highest in the western part of the country was 17 per cent. Some rough going was encountered at Gallop, New Mexico, where several bridges had been washed out and the sturdy Olds was compelled to dive down into the wash and up the steep bank at the opposite side. Most of the roads across the country was rough, especially those in Missouri.

The greatest mileage was covered the first day out between New York and Uniontown, when 440 miles were left behind. The smallest was 140, between Los Vegas and Albequerque, N. M.

Baker was accompanied on this trip by A. F. McCrae, a mechanic, of the Olds factory in Detroit.

The car left New York on October 8, with all gears except high removed. The automobile was inspected by newspapermen to see that no second, low or reverse gears were in the transmission and it was then officially sealed. This is the first time any automobile, let alone one in the low price class, has ever tried such a feat.

Thus far, Baker said, no trouble has been encountered and every grade has been made with ease. He expects that the balance of the run to the coats will also be "put across" without trouble, saying that this new six offers most exceptional hill climbing power due to its rugged construction, proper gear ratio and the 42 horsepower engine used in its manufacture.

The car used is a standard, stock touring car and nothing, it is said, has been altered, with the exception of removing the other speed gears from the transmission, and this was done to forestall any claims that the entire trip was not made in high, after the car reaches the Pacific coast. The gear ratio, clutch, transmission, engine and entire chassis used on this trip are standard and included in every Oldsmobile built.

Baker himself is an unusually interesting figure in automobile racing circles. He has crossed the continent 61 times by automobile and motor cycle. In 1920 he took but four days, 5 hours and 23 minutes to cross the continent, actual driving time. Other records include speed contests, endurance runs, ecenomy tests and runs between nearly every city in the country.

Tales of Baker's endurance on these runs would sound like a fairy tale to persons who did not know the man. Time and again he has driven 50 hours and more without sleep in a speed race, only to snatch an hour or two rest and drive another 40 or 50 hours without sleep, all the time driving better than a mile a minute, in some of the highest powered cars ever built, or by motorcycle.

Contrary to the generally accepted opinion of the best and safest time to drive, Baker says that night offers him the best opportunities to cover ground. It is then, he says, that traffic is the lightest and he can see other cars coming by watching for light around corners and at cross roads.

Baker has driven at the Indianapolis 500 mile sweepstakes race but he contends that he would rather drive cross country runs than in regular road races, the danger being less. He says that at Indianapolis you can always tell what you are going to do, but the dangerous part of the driving is not the speed but rather the question of what the "other fellow is going to do." "If anything happens to a car in a big race," he says, "the chances are good that some one else will get hurt, while in a cross country race you only have your own problem to contend with and a few other cars ambling along at from 25 to 45 miles an hour to watch."

Corrigan Delivers Two Graham Trucks

Graham selected by Pep Chemical Co.

Two Graham trucks were delivered in Glendale recently by R. E. Corrigan, West Colorado street, local distributor of this truck and the Dodge automobile.

One of these trucks went to the city of Glendale. For some time the officials of the city have been on the lookout for a truck that would exactly meet its needs. Power and speed were features that had to be considered, as well as durability and absolute dependability. After taking all of these features in consideration the various city officials and superintendent of the engineering department, in which section of the city government the truck will be used, decided on the Graham.

The same was true with the Pep Chemical company. When this firm has deliveries to make it wants to know that it has a dependable and speedy machine with which to make them. Various makes of speed wagons were tried out, and the selection of the company was the Graham.

RICKENBACKER CAR BRINGS VAST SUM

"What was the highest price an automobile ever sold for?

"This query arises as the result of information we have just received to the effect that the Detroit Firemen's association has just received $50,000 for a Rickenbacker roadster," says G. A. Richards of the Cunningham Richards company, Rickenbacker distributors for Michigan.

"100,000 tickets were sold for 50 cents each as chances on this car, which was raffled off on the firemen's annual field day, Sunday September 9.

"It proved to be the biggest day they ever had and the financial returns were greatest.

"If any car ever brought a higher price than that I'd like to hear about it," says Mr. Richards. "To me this looks like a world's record."

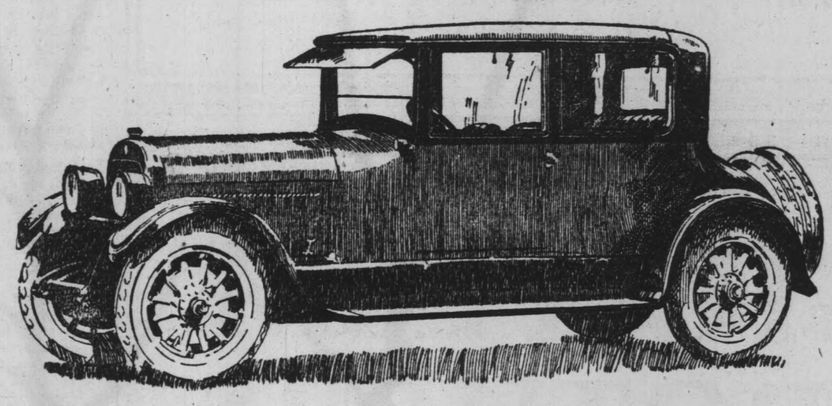
EXPECT GREAT THINGS



The New 5 Passenger Coupe

V-63

The distinguished appearance of this new Cadillac V-63 five-passenger Coupe indicates in itself that Cadillac has achieved even higher levels in fine car building.

It is insufficient to say that the luxurious comfort and the roominess that Cadillac has always provided have been delightfully increased.

These features have been supplemented by a fuller measure of driving safety—by a new and undreamed smoothness of performance.

Cadillac four-wheel brakes developed and perfected by Cadillac engineers after long, painstaking effort, contribute a certainty of control that makes the new V-63 Cadillac absolute master over every situation.

These sturdy brakes curb to implicit obedience the great power and speed of the new Cadillac V-63 engine—harmonized and balanced by entirely new principles of design to a degree of smoothness unapproached in automotive manufacture.

Eloquently does this Coupe's appearance invite you to expect great things. Equally impressively does the superb performance of the new V-63 Cadillac fulfill these great expectations.

STAR PERFORMANCE MAKES HIM A SALESMAN

E. L. Krake, of Hollywood, had no idea when he started in his Star sedan from Midland, Mich., to tour across the continent to the Pacific that he would wind up his jaunt in that city.

Through the performance of his little Star on its 3104-mile run he has decided to make a living by selling something whose merits he had so well proved.

What greatly impressed him was the fact that repairs during his long journey had cost him only 75 cents and that his sedan had given him 20 and one-tenth miles to a gallon of gasoline.

CHANDLER NOW IS FOOLPROOF CAR

"There is nothing new to learn—you drive the 1924 Chandler with the Traffic transmission just like the ordinary car with the ordinary gear shift; the difference is entirely in the results, not in the method of handling." Smith & Howe, 116 North Maryland avenue, the representatives here of the Chandler, are kept busy explaining to motorists that the Chandler's new gearset attains its well-nigh miraculous results without compelling the driver of the car to learn a new system of control.

As a fact, one might get in a 1924 Chandler and drive it without realizing that there has been any change in the transmission. He would go through exactly the same motions as always heretofore—but he would find that the shifting lever would move at the slightest touch, that it always went everywhere he wanted it without possibility of failure, that the gears never clash, and that changes from higher to lower gears can be made even more readily than the ordinary shift up can be made with the old-fashiond gearset.

When a gear is to be changed, the moving of the shifting lever slides a pair of sturdy keys along grooves in the shaft of the Traffic transmission and these keys engage the gear that is selected, infallibly and noiselessly. There are two pairs of keys, one for reverse and low and the other for intermediate and high.

The facility with which gear changes can be made in the 1924 Chandler is almost unbelievable, but tests by the merest beginners are proof positive that the gears canot clash or grind. With the Traffic transmission he can change from one gear to another, either higher or lower ,instantly, and it is impossible to strip the teeth.

It has been demonstrated that the Traffic transmission enables the most inexperienced driver, the most timid woman, to handle the 1924 Chandler as well as an expert, and the most expert driver gains increased comfort and facility.

Ease of gear changing promotes the safety and comfort of motoring. It encourages the free use of the engine as a brake, a feature of safe driving that heretofore could be utilized only by the most skillful driver. It is a brake that is always equalized and never fails.

No longer need the motorist fear the failure of his brakes in descending hills, nor need he hesitate to change in ascending for fear that he will "miss the shift." With the Chandler he has the dual advantage of the remarkable performance of the Pikes Peak motor and the safety of the clash-proof quick-change transmission.

And in city driving, the advantages of facile changing of gears is self-evident; in fact, its marked advantages in city traffic is what suggested the name, "Traffic transmission."

STRAIGHT AND NARROW PATH

Motorists could well follow a good road in more than one way. A good road goes straight, is always on the level and never narrow.

SUBURBANITES ARE MADE BY THE AUTO

Smith has been paying one hundred dollars a month for an apartment in the city. He finds that he can buy a suburban house 12 miles out for 75 dollars a month. This cuts his rent item 25 dollars monthly and the family garden cuts grocery bills. With these and sundry other savings in the cost of loving, the purchase of an automobile is made possible.

This is especially noticeable around large cities like Chicago, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Detroit, etc.

As a result, real-estate promotors and automobile dealers find frequent opportunity to cooperate to mutual advantage, as the purchase of a home in one of these outlying districts necessitates the purchase of an automobile, and the possession of an automobile on the part of a city dwellers makes it possible to sell him a house or lot in these new suburban districts. Sections are now occupied that could not have been utilized for years if depending on other means of transportation.

Changes in transportation methods mark the progress of civilization. Congestion in our cities will be eliminated, more highways provided, the tendency to live out in the country increased and the wealth of the country developed by the increasing use of motor transportation.

This little story was handed in by C. L. Smith, local dealer for the Chevrolet automobile.

MAXWELLS USED BY LOCAL FIRM

The new organization which recently took over the plant of the S. W. Brown Company, manufacturers of Green Hill beverages, have standardized on Maxwell cars for their business. A Maxwell sedan was delivered recently to Mr. Wm. Roslington, president of the company, and a Maxwell coupe was delivered to Mr. Barnhart, vice-president and manager of sales of the organiztion.

"We adopted Maxwell cars for our business," sayst Mr. Roslington, "because we have been watching them carefully for the past year. Our men have had reports from more than one hundred Maxwell owners and we have yet to find a single owner of a 1922 or 1923 Maxwell who is not entirely satisfied with it. We made inquiry from the Southrn California Edison Company, who now have more than one hundred Maxwell cars in service, many of them in use in the Huntington Lake district, where the roads are cut out of the side of the mountains and the grade averages 15 to 20 per cent, and their reports confirm in every way that the Maxwell is standing up under the hardest kind of service with the lowest possible operating cost.

What the Traffic Transmission Means to YOU

WHETHER you have been driving 10 weeks or 10 years, the Traffic Transmission means greater confidence, safety, and pleasure in driving—with nothing new to learn.

You can't clash gears with the Traffic Transmission—all gears are always in mesh.

You can't strip gears—their edges and corners never undergo a strain.

You can't make a dub shift—each attempt is successful and silent.

You can change gears instantaneously—going up hill or down at all normal driving speeds.

You can make the change without "feeling your way" or working the clutch at a stand-still.

You can prevent skidding by an instant change to second, distributing the braking effect of the engine equally between the rear wheels.

You can pull out of mud holes and deep sand—a quick, sure shift rolls you out before you stall.

You can save your car from needless strains—by an easy shift to second instead of staying in high.

You can enjoy these amazing driving delights only in the

LATEST OAKLAND COMPLETES LONG RUN

Completing one of the most unusual runs a motor car ever made, the Oakland "True Blue Traveler," which has been engaged in a nation-wide demonstration on safety first, arrived in Southern California this week.

Since the tour car left the factory at Pontiac, Michigan, Sept. 8, it has made 5,353 miles, zig-zagging across the country, plowing through bad roads, rain and snow storms, running in temperatures ranging from the freezing point at high altitudes, to the heat of the desert wastes of the southwest.

The Oakland six came into Los Angeles mechanically perfect, according to driver and observer, having developed no engine trouble along the way. Despite the long run, and the fact that the car gave demonstration on four-wheel brakes in 88 cities to police and fire departments on wet pavements, when it was put to unusual strain, it still carried the original brake lining and four of the original set of tires. The front wheel tires never have been taken off during the entire trip. Each rear tire had one puncture.

The car which arrived here is No. 2 of the 1924 production and was taken direct from the production line August 18. Since that time it has made more than 12,500 miles. The new L-head motor developed unusual power under all conditions, and made long steep mountain road climbs easily, forced its way through almost impassable "gumbo" in Iowa for 621 miles during five days of heavy rain in that state, surprising the oldest automobile men by its performance, and made the long desert runs with remarkable ease.

The tour car now here, is one of a fleet of six cars sent out from the Oakland Motor Car company plant Sept. 8 to cover every state in the union in a nation-wide demonstration on safety, and the new features of the 1924 models. None of the cars followed national highways, but ziz-zagged everywhere, to make the larger cities and towns along their course.

Besides the 88 cities where the car which came to Los Angeles gave demonstrations on wet pavements prepared by fire departments, it also made stops in several hundred smaller cities and towns for from 10 minutes to a half hour, when the four-wheel brakes were demonstrated to city officials on dry pavements.

Probably no motor car in the history of the automotive field ever received a more thorough commendation for safety features it carries than has the new Oakland six. In every city where the car was shown, it was heralded by officials as an apostle of safety, and was given the most hearty approval and endorsement. City officials everywhere have given their written endorsement of the new Oakland six as "the safest car on wheels" after seeing the tour car perform under most unusual conditions with its four-wheel brakes, and testing out its other safety features—centralized control, indirect lighting system for safe night driving, and ability to shift gears at any speed.

Thomas E. Ricketts, West Colorado, handles the Oakland car in Glendale.

WHY SHOULD WE CONSTRUCT ROADS?

"What's the use of building great highway systems, at an expense of millions and millions of dollars, when in a few short years all the freight and passenger traffic will be carried in the air?"

The question is always being asked by some one, usually some one who is endowed by nature with faculty of thinkins straight, but sometimes by those who think, but without data on which to go.

The next ten, or the next hundred years, will see enormous strides made in aviation. Mail, some express, some passenger traffic will go via plane, and much sport and travel will use it. But no future development of aeronautics can overcome the fundamental fact of nature, that to raise a weight in the air and maintain it there, requires power, and that power is an equivalent for value; in our terms, money.

Therefore, no matter how desirable otherwise, no system of transportation which requires an expenditure to support a weight, can compete in cheapness with those in which the weight is borne by the earth.

There will always be railroads, always be vessels on the water, always be roads and road vehicles. They will change, improve, become more economical, more speedy, more safe, but the earth will continue to carry the bulk of the traffic, simply and solely because it doesn't charge anything for holding up the weight, whereas nature makes us pay, and heavily, to hold the weight up in the air, while we transport it.

Those who build roads today will not live to see the time when their roads are not used. Those who bond themselves for roads today will never see the day when those bonds are outstanding against disused highways. The airways will be increasingly used, but not for freight!

STAR CAR PRICE CUT ON ALL MODELS

Changing plans that had already been formed at the last minute, W. C. Durant reduced the price of the Star car instead of increasing it. He had practically issued orders for a raise, but switched in order to continue to give the people the lowest priced selective-type, transmission-equipped car on the market. As officials always say, Durant keeps his faith with the public.

Further than this, so the telegraphic instructions to his distributors state, everyone who has purchased a Star car since September 1 will receive a rebate equal to the amount of reduction in price. This is an unusual thing, but is only another instance of the policy of the Durant interests, which manufacture the Star, to keep faith with the public.

The reduction ranges from $30 to $60. The effect of the price reduction was felt immediately all over the country, where every Star dealer had his reserve stock of cars depleted in a day. At the new prices there is scarcely a family but which can afford to own a Star, and with a dealer organization that extends into every nook and corner of the state, prompt, efficient and moderately priced service is obtainable. This is a vital point in motor car ownership, and here again Durant follows the policy of giving the public its money's worth.

The increase in sales volume which it is certain the reduction in price will develop will offset the immediate loss in manufacturing profits and enable the Durant factories to manufacture at less cost. It is a known fact that increased production lessen production costs, and with the Star factories running at capacity the lower price is made possible.

The Star car is sold in Glendale by Dilley & Armstrong, 115 West Harvard.

MUCH LIKE THE OLDEN DAYS

The old days of the stage coach are coming back, only in the year 1923 the coaches are luxurious rubber tire Pullmans propelled by gasoline. Already there are a surprising number of such coaches touring the improved roads of the country on regular schedule. Stopovers for meals and lodging are made at the best hotels, and every known form of comfort and safety is provided. It makes one believe that history repeats itself to see the wayside inn bustle with excitement as the inn-keeper greets thirty or forty guests for the night.

NEW JEWETT MAKES HIT WITH EXPERTS

Recently the new Jewett brougham was publicly announced. The instantaneous success of this new model was assured several weeks earlier when trade journal representatives and newspaper men, whom we regard as mirrors of public thought, pronounced the body construction employed in the brougham as a decidedly successful innovation.

Until actually demonstrated to them, newspaper men, dealers and even some engineers appeared doubtful that the Paige-Detroit Motor Car company had at last accomplished what has been talked of for many years—the building of a body with baked enamel finish, thus guaranteeing lasting lustre, yet having the body framed in hardwood.

All the evils of a body framed in steel, such as rumbling, rigidity and lack of flexibility are overcome by this new type of construction.

Automotive Industries in the current issue carries a long description of the new body as well as the process of its manufacture. Excerpts from the article follow:

"Although built on the usual wood structural frame, the metal work is all finished in black enamel which is baked on at high temperature. This combination is obtained by progressive installation of completely formed and enameled metal sections upon a complete wood framework. Each section of the metal work is finished individually by the enameling process and delivered to its proper station in the assembly line. The wood frame is finished completely in the wood shop and primed for weather-proofing only, before delivery to the assembly line, not being subjected to the high temperatures of the enameling process at any stage of its progress.

"Exterior appearance is finished off by a system of beading which is bolted into place at the junctions of the various panels. As required, these bead strips are stripped by a transfer process immediately after enameling. The top frame construction is such that the interior finishing cloth is tacked in from above leaving no exposed joints. The outer surface of the top is leather fabric which is finished off smoothly by wire-on tape. As each panel or section is dipped during the enameling process, the metal work from sills to roof line is finished on both sides and impervious to rust or corrosion.

The Jewett is handled in Glendale by Ralph B. Bliss, 306 East Colorado.

The New Jewett Six Brougham, $1325

Lasting Lustre, Baked Enamel Finish by New Process

QUITE the smartest car the season has produced—just the achievement you'd expect from Paige engineers. Jewett Six Brougham at but $1325 gives peak quality—the best value the Paige organization ever produced for the money.

How Jewett Brougham steel body panels are enamel dipped for separate baking

The lasting lustre finish is the result of a new process. Each steel body panel is separately dipped three times in finest black enamel, then baked—then separately fastened to the extra-large, extra-strong wood body frames. Wood frames—not steel—because wood reduces noise, absorbs vibration. Lift the rear seat cushions. See the steel body panels enameled on the inside, too—no rusting possible.

Never before could this finish be placed on a wood frame body. The intense baking heat would burn the frames. But separate pre-enameling and baking give you a car of lasting lustre. It gives the Jewett Six Brougham the rich black gloss all over the car, seen only on fenders of other cars. Trust Paige to contribute such a step toward lasting good looks!

Full, roomy comfort for five—extra long leg room in front. Two individual front seats which both fold forward, give easy entrance and exit from either side. Rear seat is of full width for three. Interior finish the kind you'll be proud of. Upholstered in velour. Remove the rear seat cushion and there's room for sample trunk or cumbersome baggage. Commodious trunk on rear is extra well made.

Like all Jewetts the Brougham has full 50 horse-power, Paige-built motor that fills the hood. Hollow crank-shaft high pressure oiling system gives silent smoothness and long life. Paige-Timken axles front and rear; ball-bearing steering spindles; 6-inch-deep frame. Ruggedness throughout that explains Jewett's acknowledged stamina.

Jewett Brougham performs like all Jewetts—goes from 5 to 25 miles an hour in 7 seconds, in high gear; from 2 to 60 miles an hour, in high. Passes most any car on any hill. Gear shifting is rare, and easy when you do shift.

Business men, salesmen, farmers, wives with children to look after—everyone will welcome this new Jewett Brougham. It is smart in appearance—permanently good looking. No apologies for the looks of the finish—requires no attention but washing.

We are proud to have you drive this new 5-passenger Brougham yourself for any kind of a test you want—performance, comfort, good looks, safety and for convenience. (607-B)

PERFORMANCE IS BIG THING SAYS CLARK

"The day a man buys a car he is most interested in specifications, appearance, price. But the next day and every day thereafter he is looking for performance," says Lyman P. Clark of the Glendale Motor Car company, 124 West Colorado street, Maxwell and Chalmers dealers.

"In few other commodities does the consideration of value change so suddenly. What the car is moves the buyer to take delivery. What it does is the thing that makes him satisfied.

"The Maxwell car today is recognized by everybody as one of the best looking cars on the market. Its beautiful body lines and disc wheel equipment makes it distinctively a high class car. Its riding qualities are not surpassed by any motor car in the three thousand dollar class. The power in the Maxwell motor is a surprise to everyone who drives it. Maxwell owners have found the upkeep and maintenance expense far below that of any other car they have ever driven. It is because the public has recognized the value in the Maxwell car today that the sales have jumped from seventeenth place to third place.

"The responsibility of the local dealer alone can meet the conditions that obtain after purchase. Adequate facilities for service backed by a real spirit of cooperation on the part of the local dealer, constitute the major essentials of good automobile performance today. That goes not only for Glendale but for any town on the map."

BRAKES LOWER CAD. INSURANCE

Of considerable interest is the announcement of the general exchange corporation offering to purchasers of the new V-63 Cadillac a ten per cent reduction on collision and five per cent reduction on property damage insurance premiums, due to the factory installation of four-wheel brakes.

The reduction is an exclusive arrangement with the insurance carrier, the executives agreeing that exposure to collisions and property damage loss is minimized by the use of four-wheel brakes.

Attention is also called to the five per cent reduction in the theft premium charge by reason of the addition of the Cadillac spare tire lock.

This information was just received by the Court Motor company, local dealers for the Cadillac at 235 South Brand boulevard.

Did this ever happen to you?

Did you ever frantically try to dodge a little child who had run into the street before you, because you knew your brakes were not good enough to stop your car before you struck the little one?

Did you ever unexpectedly come down to a sharp turn on a steep mountain road and wonder if your brakes would slow you down enough so that you could take it without skidding over the bank?

Did you ever help tow your own or some friend's car out of the ditch into which it had skidded when necessity forced the severe application of the brakes on a rainy day?

Did you ever finish a long drive, worn out by the strain of handling a hard steering car, your nerves numbed by the periodic vibration of the motor, transmitted through the steering wheel to your arms and shoulders?

Did you ever have to shift from high to second gear on a hill and then have a 1918 "puddle jumper" pass you like you were anchored, and the kids looking out of the back window where the celluloid ought to be, giving you the merry HA HA?

Did you ever buy a car that was obsolete when you bought it or that was soon made so by some improvement added by the manufacturer, and find out that after a year's use it was worth less than half what you paid for it?

MOON
First With BALLOON TIRES

In the lead in adopting many improvements and advances, MOON now is first with Balloon Tires.

MOON Engineers show that Balloon Tires are the most economical in the long run—some Balloon Tire equipped cars have gone over 30,000 miles and are still going on the original tires.

The motoring public wants Balloon Tires for these reasons:

They give twice the braking surface between the wheels and the road that ordinary tires give.

The large, low-pressure tires assure riding comfort beyond description.

Skidding almost impossible, due to large road contact area which practically suck the road.

Safety in driving is greatly enhanced.

Only thirty pounds air pressure required.

Eliminate body rattles and squeaks.

Greater size tire gives better road traction.

Appearance is much more handsome than ordinary tire.

Give car a more substantial and lower appearance.

Wheel diameter is decreased, adding to beauty of car.

TEN SIMPLE REASONS for Preferring the Single-Six

1. The Single-Six is a product of Packard, which insures supreme fineness of manufacturing. Packard quality has won for the Single-Six the name—"the ten year car."
2. The brilliant beauty of the Single-Six is outstanding in every company. Such intrinsic good looks combined with the prestige of the name Packard, contribute unfailingly to pride of possession.
3. A demonstration ride conclusively proves the superiority of Single-Six performance.
4. Packard design is the last word in simplicity and accessibility. Thus, the delays and expense of care and upkeep are reduced to the very minimum.
5. No other six is so easy to handle. Packard Fuelizer ascures easy starting and smooth running under all conditions. Gear shifting is required only in the case of a dead stop. Steering effort is negligible.
6. Based solely on Single-Six owners' experience, you may anticipate 16 to 20 miles from a gallon of gasoline, 20,000 miles, or more, from a set of tires.
7. The Single-Six is luxuriously easy riding. You have only to try it to realize its greater comfort.
8. Packard Single-Six costs very, very little for repairs and service. Owners' reports of low cost of Single-Six maintenance under Packard's standardized service are invariably a revelation to drivers of lesser cars.
9. As an investment, the Single-Six costs actually less to own than second-choice cars whose list price is several hundred dollars lower. Let any Packard salesman prove this statement.
10. Ask the man who owns one.

Annual Inspection of G. A. R. Post, Relief Corps

Friday proved to be a notable day with N. P. Banks post and the Relief Corps. This being the date of the annual inspection, the Relief Corps brought the department inspector, Mrs. Ella M. French, and with her the department president, Mrs. Alpha G. Daul. Past Department President Mrs. Emma J. Sheer and several other present and past department officers of G. A. R. and corps. At noon dinner was announced and every seat at the tables was quickly filled and quite a large number was obliged to wait for the second serving. Over 150 enjoyed the splendid dinner that was served by these ladies. A notable feature was several big birthday cakes, showing that October has been the banner month for birthdays, as 13 or 14 of those present claimed this month as the date of their nativity. After lunch short addresses were listened to from the visiting officers who expressed their great pleasure at being present on this occasion. Some interesting stories of the recent national encampment at Milwauke were given, after which the celemonial of inspection was carried out in splendid form.

HALLOWE'EN MASQUERADE BY ENDEAVOR SOCIETY

Witches, ghosts, fairies, clowns, blind men, tramps, Japanese ladies, kids, Spanish ladies and gentlemen mingled freely and joyously together last night at the Hallowe'en masquerade party held by the Intermediate Christian Endeavor Society of the Glendale Presbyterian church. The three Intermediate rooms were prettily decorated in orange and black crepe paper with witches, cats, and pumpkin faces hung by colored strings from the ceiling; while below were long streamers of orange and black reaching the full length of the rooms. Around the sides and in the corners were cornstalks and big Jack O' lanters with permanent grins enlightened by a candle's glare.

About fifty Intermediates gathered at 6:30, the girls bringing box lunches and the boys buying them for the benefit of the building fund. Graham Tinning auctioned off the lunches, which swelled the building fund by $15 or $20. An electrical show was given by Wilbur Lemon and Paul Scott, followed by lively games and stunts directed by Miss Gladys Gilman. Miss Mildred Sooy, the general director, was responsible for the decorations and the good time enjoyed by all.

MRS. WEIDMAN NEW CHOIR LEADER CHRISTIAN CHURCH

The music lovers and members of the Central Christian church are congratulating themselves on the good fortune the church has had in securing the services of Mrs. Viva Lee Weidman as director of music and choir leader of the church.

Mrs. Weidman recently came to Glendale from Miami, Florida, where she received high praise as a contralto soloist in music circles and among the churches. Formerly she had sung at many recitals and for clubs and churches in Chicago and Evansville, Ind. The Miami Herald in commenting on her work there said "she has achieved much prominence in musical circles, particularly as a recital and oratorio soloist. She has a rich contralto voice of great depth and range, with a uniformity of quality rarely found."

The music committee of the Central Christian church is planning regular Sunday evening monthly concerts under the direction of Mrs. Weidman and the popularity of the music of this church will no doubt be increased through the personality and musical ability of the leader.

LUTHERAN CHURCHES

Nine Lutheran churches of Los Angeles and vicinity are planning a joint celebration of the 406th anniversary for the Protestant Reformation, by a rally service to be held in the First Lutheran church, 800 South Flower street on Wednesday evening, October 31. These churches are all of the general body known as the United Lutheran Church in America. Doubtless other celebrations will be arranged by Lutheran churches of other synodical connections.

Under the leadership of a national committee on evangelism, the United Lutheran church is planning the celebration of the Reformation this year by mass meetings in more than 150 of the larger cities of the United States. The celebration is to stress not so much the name and work of Martin Luther, as the evangelical message of the Reformation, and is to supply the keynote for a winter of specially planned effort in behalf of souls, looking to an ingathering of new members at the next Easter season.

For the Reformation Rally at the First Lutheran church on October 31, which is the anniversary of the posting by Luther of the 95 theses, the opening act of the Reformation, there will be two addresses, the one by Rev. J. W. Ball, Ph. D. on "The Lutheran World Conference; the Most Significant Event Since the Reformation." The other will be given by Rev. George H. Hillerman, D. D., of Oakland on "The Old Gospel in a New Age."

Reformation chorales will be sung by the congregation, led by the combined choirs of the participating churches, and other special musical numbers will be given. The pastor of First church, the Rev. Dr. Dysinger, will preside, and other local pastors will assist in the services. Rev. H. C. Funk of the Glendale First Lutheran church is on the program.

WHAT DO YOU WANT MOST IN A HOME?

Here is a home with the mountains at your back door and the valley and Hollywood mountains to look out on from the front. A comparatively new six-room house facing 10th St. There is a large porch across the front, a pergola on the side and an awning-shaded porch in the rear between the wings. Parties sit on the rear porch and watch the tennis games on the large cement court on the rear of the lot. Adjoining the court is a dressing room with hot and cold shower and toilet. Roses and other shrubbery surround the house. The house contains three sleeping rooms in the west wing, one of which is an open-air room, screened and awninged; the other wing contains dinnig room, kitchen, breakfast nook, screened porch. Between the wings is a large living room with fireplace on one side and built in bookcases on the opposite, while the entire ends are made up of French doors leading to the front and rear porches. The house is modern throughout and best of all is convenient and comfortable. A garage at the rear houses two cars, a separate shop and separate store room. This place is three blocks from the new grade school and six blocks to the P. E. Burbank car. Burbank-Hollywood bus line passes the door. Ask to see this place before it is disposed of, as at $10,500 it is going to be picked up for a bargain.

TELEPHONE CO. PLANS MANY EXTENSIONS

Manager Fred Deal gives out the following data on projected improvements in his territory:

"The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company's construction program to be carried out in Glendale during the remainder of this year and early next year involves an expenditure of over $200,000.

"The work to be done includes the installation of considerable switchboard equipment in the central office building, at a cost of over $54,000.

"Approximately $60,000 will be spent on a cable project to serve both the northwest and southwest sections of the city. About 9,000,000 conductor feet of cable will be placed in carrying out this project.

"Upwards of 4,000,000 conductor feet of cable will be extended toward the extreme northwest section at an expenditure of about $15,000.

"In addition to the above, 10,000,000 conductor feet of cable will be added before the end of the year in various sections of the city at a cost of $30,000. Scheduled for completion early in 1924 are various installation jobs which will cost approximately $44,000."

SUBJECTS FOR CURRENT PRESS ANIMATED WEEKLY

Here are subjects for this week's issue of the Glendale Press Animated Weekly to be shown at the Gateway theater: Pushball game at University of Southern California; World's smallest monkey arrives in Los Angeles; a baby marmoset born in captivity with its mother and owned by Frank Weinberg, animal dealer; marmoset is the smallest of monkey species and native of South America; A Day With Our Speeders, depicts how motorists convicted of speeding, etc., spend their time in the county jail.

A man was on a motoring tour when his car broke down near a small village. It was late in the evening, so he decided to put up for the night at the only inn the village possessed.

After a rather scrappy supper he was conducted to his bedroom, but soon after the landlord had returned downstairs his guest leaned over the balustrade and cried:

"Landlord! Do you think I'm going to clean my own boots?"

"What do you mean?" grumbled the landlord.

"What have you put a polishing pad on my bed for?" demanded the guest.

The landlord came upstairs to look.

"Polishing pad!" he snapped. "That's not a polishing pad! That's the pillow!"

Many an otherwise honest young man never hesitates to steal a kiss.

FAWSON OBJECTS TO STABLE AROMA

Tells Council Gas Masks or Closed Windows Necessary

Objection to the maintenance of a stable at 831 East Windsor road was made by J. Fawson of 905 Raleigh street Thursday night before the city council.

The property in question, which is owned by Dr. C. W. Bachman, has been leased by Contractor George F. Mishler. He is reported to be keeping a number of horses on the rear of the lot.

"You have got to have your gas masks on every night to be in the neighborhood," stated Mr. Fawson. "You can't stand to keep the doors and the windows open at all."

The matter was referred, upon motion of Councilman C. E. Kimlin, seconded by Councilman Sam Davis, to Fire Chief A. H. Lankford, Police Chief J. D. Fraser and Dr. G. Kaemmerling, city health officer, for investigation and report.

Mr. Fawson explained that the subject has been discussed with Dr. Kaemmerling already. He is reported to have explained that any number of horses can be kept on private property provided they are not less than ten feet from a dwelling.

City Attorney Ray L. Morrow called attention to the fact that action has been taken to condemn this property for the extension of Raleigh street. He admitted that some time would be required for the court process.

The removal of an abandoned reservoir in the neighborhood also was recommended by Mr. Fawson. The matter was referred to Peter Dederich, superintendent of the public service department.

Residents of this neighborhood, in the opinion of Mr. Fawson, have homes which are a credit to Glendale.

LA CRESCENTA NOTES

The big event of the week-end was the supper of the local Boy Scouts last evening, when they were hosts to their parents at the school auditorium. At the close of a splendid repast France Henry of Glendale, accompanied by Scouts Glen Cunningham, Kenneth Solomon, Arthur Barton and Robert Eastman, representatives of the Verdugo Hills district at the Older Scouts conference in Santa Barbara, arrived. Short talks were made by each Scout. C. W. Angier, Scoutmaster of the local troop, was toastmaster. Rev. Kelso made the opening talk. His subject was "What a Boy Scout Can Do for the Church." He was followed by A. Blanford, whose subject covered "What a Boy Scout Can Do for a School." M. S. Collins' talk on "What a Boy Scout Means to a Community." A. Cox's on "What I Get Out of Scouting," and A. G. Koltz's on "How I Became a Scout" were much enjoyed. Mrs. A. G. Koltz composed a march and dedicated same to the local troop, which was a happy feature of the evening's program.

Members of the Missionary society of the Community church were charmingly entertained at the home of Mrs. C. J. Telfer of Oak and Honolulu avenues, yesterday afternoon. The missionary meeting was led by Miss Gertrude Bickel and was followed by a business session of the Service league. In the absence of the president and vice-president the secretary, Mrs. L. A. Potter, presided. Mrs. V. L. Finley was elected vice-president to fill the vacancy made by the resignation of Mrs. C. Erben. A reception is being planned by the Service league to follow the dedication of the new Community church some time late in November.

Miss Marion Keith of Altura avenue, charmingly entertained the La Crescenta Aeolian Music club last evening. The business session was presided over by President Robert Kelso. New members added to this fast growing organization include Misses Sara Conlin, Margaret Brown and Mildred Buiscar, also Howard Brownell. Miss Keith was assisted by Miss Sara Conlin.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stine of 122 West Mayfield avenue, sympathize with them deeply over the death of their little daughter, Mary Ellen, who passed away at the Burbank hospital Thursday, after a short stay of only three days. Mrs. Stine is reported doing nicely.

Miss Sallie Ralls of Fort Worth, Texas, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Claude Hendrix of West Montrose avenue.

Little Miss Molly Bissell has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Minford of Verdugo Knolls for the past week.

GLENDALE M. E. SOUTH FAST FORGING AHEAD

Members and friends of the Broadway Methodist church, South, will be interested to know that in his address before the Pacific conference now in session in Los Angeles, Bishop Du Bose praised the work that this church had accomplished since its organization less than a year ago, and predicted that in the very near future Glendale would have a church that the conference would be proud of. He spoke most encouragingly of the work, zeal and loyalty of this young congregation. He requested the conference to come in a body and see for themselves the bright prospects. It has been arranged for the entire conference to come to Glendale and inspect the church property at 4:45 Saturday afternoon.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

JAMES W. FOLEY

THE LOST HEART

Back among the trees and trellises, along the leaf-strewn lane,
Sitting on the bank of the mill stream and dreaming dreams again,
Drinking water sweet as nectar from the bucket at the well,
In the orchard's leaf and silence, watching 'windfalls as they fell,
Trying here, at five and thirty, just to be a boy again,
To recall the joys of boyhood and forget the cares of men;
But I listen to a lesson in the twitter of the wren;
When the boy's heart turns to man's it never throbs the same again.

Once the sun marks noon of lifetime, once the morning steals away,
Once the shadows growing shorter and then fall the other way,
Once the play time ends at manhood, once the frolicking is done,
Once the face is turned from dawning to the setting of the sun,
You may sit among the flowers that you plucked and threw away,
Turn the leaves of Time all backward, try to read them as you may,
You may kindle fires of Memory, you may sit and watch the flame,
But there's something changed within you that can never be the same.

So I sit among the trellises and trees and wonder why:
Clear the air as in my boyhood and as blue the unflecked sky,
Full the leaves as ever blowing, sweet the bird songs and as free,
But the boy's heart that throbbed to them is untuned and dead in me.
There's a longing, longing, longing, speaking in a deep-drawn sigh,
For the heart that throbbed in boyhood, cloudless as the azure sky;
For the heart that was the sunlight and the air—that tongue nor pen
Can ever paint or picture—that I cannot know again.

BUCK JONES FILM FEATURE IS FINE RURAL ROMANCE

"Second Hand Love" is a rural tapestry from whose weave a charming romance comes to the Glendale Theater today only, with Charles Jones essaying the principal role.

Threading with consummate artistry through the melancholy fortunes of Angela, the girl who deserted her husband upon being disillusioned as to his character, the story encounters material of a stiffer fabric in Andy the itinerant tinker.

LAST SHOWINGS OF "THE CHEAT" AT THE GATEWAY

Pola Negri's second American made Paramount picture, "The Cheat," a George Fitzmaurice production with Jack Holt featured as leading man and Charles De Roche in support, has its last showings today at the Gateway Theater. The picture scored a veritable triumph.

The second screen version of this immensely popular story, which was produced about eight years ago by Cecil B. DeMille, has been entirely rewritten and modernized and now offers tremendous opportunities for highly dramatic acting to the principals. It is an ideal screen vehicle, and Fitzmaurice has made the most of it, the action throughout being staged with much realism.

Miss Negri's far-famed emotional acting was never more wonderful.

During the making of "Zaza," Dwan's Paramount production of the famous French play with Gloria Swanson in the title role, which will be on view at the Gateway Theater Sunday, H. B. Warner, who plays the principal male role, Bernard Dufresne, worked seventen hours a day. He arose at seven every morning to go to the Paramount studio on Long Island for work in the picture and was at the theater every night until midnight playing the lead in "You and I," a Harvard prize play which proved such a success on Broadway. Did anyone say an actor's life was easy?

DOUBLE THRILLER AGAIN TODAY AT T. D. & L. THEATER

Again today delighted patrons of the T., D. & L. Theater will have a chance to enjoy the big double thriller which is a film novelty in Glendale. There's the "Meanest Man in the World" starring Bert Lytell, Bryant Washburn, Blanche Sweet and a big supporting cast, and Lloyd Hamilton in "F. O. B." You'll laugh til you cry over this well-meaning maker of comical blunders.

Beginning Sunday at the T., D. & L., Synthia Stockley's most popular cosmopolitan magazine story, "Ponjola," with Anna Q. Nilsson, James Kirkwood, Tully Marshall and a big cast. Glendale remembers "Ponjola"—remembers it as one of Synthia Stockley's most popular stories, but, most vividly it is recalled as being one of the best applauded previews shown recently at the T., D. & L. How well did James Kirkwood play his role! And wasn't Anna Q. Nilsson splendid! In fact, it's simply an honest-to-goodness 100 per cent picture with a double-strength story!

PIRATES ARE COMING

Scarlet sun on a sapphire sea.
A white-winged armada coursing in convoy to the rich argosies of trade.

A long, low, raking craft on the horizon; God-fearing pennant at the peak and the Jolly Roger on the ropes for hoisting at the kill.

"Yo, ho, ho, and a bottle of rum!"

In other words, "Captain Applejack," who swashbuckled about the stage to the delight of season-long audiences in New York and London, has arrived on the screen, and will be seen at the Glendale Theater, under the title of "Strangers of the Night."

WORK WEEK IN BULGARIA SCHOOLS

[By Associated Press]

SOFIA, Oct. 2 .—The autumn work week in all the public schools of Bulgaria was observed recently and another week will be similarly devoted in the spring. The boys and girls went to school as usual, but instead of studying employed the school hours in performing useful tasks. The girls knitted stockings and made night clothing for the children in the orphanages, while the boys cleaned up the school properties, applying paint where needed, digging up the school yards and repairing the pavement in front of the buildings.

This work is a part of the labor legislation by conscription, put into the statute book under the late premier, Stamboulisky. It constitutes the one reform of the previous regime that the Tsankoff administration has retained.

Efforts are being made, however, to make the conscript labor more effective by a more intelligent and systematic application. One memorial of conscript labor as worked out by the Stamboulisky regime is the long line of holes which were dug on either side of the street by the conscript laborers and never filled with the trees which they were designed to hold, on one of the principal streets of the capital, Ulitsa Rakovska.

Most men believe in the honesty of their fellows until after they have endorsed a few notes for friends.

TWO MILLION DOLLAR SALES IN LESS THAN ONE YEAR

PHENOMENAL SALE OF HOMESITES IN SPARR HEIGHTS IS REPORTED

Third Unit, Known as Montecito Park, Is Placed on Market by Barnum-Walters Co.; This Is Among Best Hillside Home Sites in This Section

MILES OF CONCRETE STREETS BEING LAID

Scores of Homes Already Erected; Many Others Planned in This $12,000,000 Residential City in the Hills North of Glendale

Two million dollars in sales totals for less than twelve months is the enviable record of Sparr Heights and its third unit, Montecito Park, as announced yesterday by Barnum-Walters Co., developers of this twelve million dollar residential city in the hills north of Glendale.

And in the twelve months, the following results have been accomplished in the development of this popular district on the Verdugo road:

1. Completion and presentation to the city of the $40,000 Sparr Heights Community Building.

2. Erection and near completion of the Oakmont country club with mammoth swimming pools and an 18-hole golf course.

3. Building of many miles of concrete, hard-surfaced and terraced drives through the foothills, together with complete improvements consisting of sewer mains, sidewalks, curbs, gas light and water.

4. Scores of homes erected, ranging from bungalows to costly hillside estates.

5. Erection of stores, garages, etc., needed to serve such a community.

"A year ago Sparr Heights and Montecito Park, the restricted residential sections of Sparr Heights, were simply a vision," said M. Walters, member of the developing firm. "Today they are actualities and rapidly being improved to the point where we can believe this will be one of the highest class residential cities in the country.

"Those who have not seen Sparr Heights in the last few months cannot possibly realize what we have accomplished here; how fast Sparr Heights and Montecito Park have progressed.

"Houses, shrouded in lacy trees and half hidden in flaming flowers, with beautiful terraced and landscaped grounds, fronting on broad concrete streets, look down from the hills of Montecito Park over the community center, the Oakmont country club and the other homes and stores in Sparr Heights.

"And all around us are the steady, silent Verdugo hills and the San Rafael and Sierra Madre mountains, to keep us cool in summer and warm in winter."

That $2,000,000 worth of homes and business sites have been bought without great sales effort in the year that Sparr Heights and Montecito Park have been jointly open is given by H. E. Barnum, other member of the developing firm, as concrete evidence of the popularity of this district in the minds of Los Angeles, Glendale, Hollywood and other local people.

"We are 25 minutes by broad, smooth highways from the heart of Los Angeles, just as close as Hollywood," Mr. Barnum views it. "And in addition, this is a residential city only, out of the noise and grime of the big centers, out in the clear, dry, healthy air, where children and the women folks can enjoy life to the utmost.

"The social side of Montecito Park cannot be too strongly stressed. The presence of the Oakmont country club (115 acres entirely surrounded by Sparr Heights and Montecito Park), with its mammoth swimming pool, tennis courts and 18-hole golf course, are a decided asset to us. The club is already erected and only a little remaining decorating and finishing and landscaping will make it one of the most beautiful places of its kind in Southern California."

Improvements are being put into Montecito Park—the restricted residential district of Sparr Heights—so rapidly and thoroughly that a man can buy a lot there today and start building tomorrow, it is announced. Already the cost of these improvements mounts to several hundred thousands of dollars.

The principal achievement is the unusual way in which hillside curves have been handled. There isn't a steep grade in the tract. And in addition, where the land needs bulwarking at the curves, retaining walls of concrete which are four feet thick at the bottom, have been installed.

In addition there are hard surfaced streets throughout, with cement highways where necessary, sidewalks, curbs, sewer mains, gas, lights, water—everything needed.

"It is a complete residential city right now," is the assertion of Barnum & Walters company. This is not a temporary subdivision company. It is a responsible firm which figures it will take three more years to complete the development of Sparr Heights and Montecito Park. And when the work is done, and the hills and little canyons are dotted with beautiful estates like those now going in, all looking down over the country club, the golf course and the little homes in the broad valley, this will match the mountain home districts of Switzerland in scenic beauty. We are proud of our week here thus far and have set a high standard for future performance that we will live up to."

WEST COAST OF MEXICO RICH CLAIM

Fred A. Bull and John W. Peabody returned Monday from an extended tour of the west coast of Mexico. Mr. Bull for seven years has owned and farmed 1000 acres of the richest land near Mazatlan. He is one of the most popular and successful Americans operating on the west coast. He said, "There is no richer soil in the world nor a climate more ideal than around Mazatlan. I have a ready market at the highest prices for all my products, tomatoes, sweet corn and green vegetables—all of which I put into the United States during the winter months. $150 to $250 an acre is my net profit and I do nothing but manage my place.

"Now that Americans are hearing of the opportunities near Mazatlan they are flocking in and seemingly buying anything. I want to warn them that cheap land prices are dearest in the end. The country is spotted and to get the best, which is rich bottom land, $15 to $35 should be paid. That price is cheap enough for these fertile lands, but don't buy stuff at $1.00 or so for you can get that kind of worthless land here without going to Mexico and do just as much with it."

Mr. Bull has just demonstrated the feasibility of raising Hawaiian pineapples, having some 20,000 plants maturing now which will yield about 4000 pineapples to the acre.

Mr. Peabody is most enthusiastic about the country, saying, "I'm going right back with my family, buy a farm and live like a king for the rest of my life."

MOTOR IS ON WAY TO GLENDALE

Electric Locomotive Started Westward Last Tuesday

30 DAYS EN ROUTE

Signs Prove Big Boost for This Little Town

The brand new electric freight engine which will run on the Glendale avenue line is on its way to Glendale. It left the factory at Pittsburg on Tuesday and will arrive in Glendale in about thirty days from that time. Two weeks will then be necessary for assembling, after which the "powerful beast" will be ready to go.

This locomotive was on exhibition at the convention of American Electric Railway Engineers held at Atlantic City from October 8th to 12th where, according to reports, it made a real hit. On either side of the locomotive during the convention was a sign 3x16 feet in size, bearing the wording:

"I go from here to Glendale, California, the fastest growing city in America." To illuminate this sign and the motor during the night hours two immense searchlights were used.

When the locomotive started from Pittsburg it bore two signs, fastened to its sides, on which were the words: "I am on my

$100,000 WORTH OF LOTS SOLD WEEKLY IN COUNTRY CLUB HIGHLANDS

Another Big Program of Entertainment Planned for Visitors to This Tract Next Sunday; Miss Virginia Valli, Movie Star, Will Be Attraction

MANY ROADS IN SUBDIVISION UNDER WAY

Located on Celebrated Pico Boulevard, This Tract Offers Wonderful Opportunity for Investment; Most Charming Home Location West of L. A.

Another complete program of entertainment is planned for visitors to Country Club Highlands this Sunday, and with it, without a doubt, there will be another high mark in the rapidly mounting sales record of this popular Pico boulevard subdivision. Each Sunday sees the throngs that crowd this property, in the path of Los Angeles rapid westward growth, grow steadily larger. And correspondingly sales records have mounted higher and higher.

But to analyze the relative importance of a well planned afternoon of high class entertainment and concentrated sales effort is quite a problem.

"Only last Sunday," states Marvin Smith, salesmanager of the tract, "while drawing up the final papers for an Easterner who had bought two lots in Country Club Highlands, I was surprised by his rather point blank statement. 'You have a wonderful piece of property here but I marvel at your sales methods.' Upon further questioning I found out that he, as many other visitors to Southern California, was much surprised at our combining entertainment with salesmanship.

In fact, when one stops to seriously consider the question it is rather unusual. However, it is just another case of Los Angeles meeting its own problems of rapid development in a new manner. We have found from actual experience that the planning of a complete program of entertainment is our only salvation to meet the demands of the usual Sunday crowd. On an average Sunday our tract is overcrowded with prospective buyers—people who, working during the week, find Sunday their only opportunity to come out and look over real estate offerings. They crowd the tract in such numbers that our sales force is usually swamped.

For that reason we have had to resort to other means to keep our visitors occupied. As a result we have found it both advisable and practical to each week plan a program of entertainment. In this manner, while our sales force is busily occupied with one group of purchasers, other visitors enjoying the entertainment find that at no moment does time hang heavy on their hands.

How successful this combination of selling effort and entertainment has been can best be determined by a study of our sales record. Each week these figures have mounted higher and higher until today we have established what is thought to be a new sales record for Pico Boulevard property. Throughout the first eight weeks our sales maintained a weekly average of well over $100,000. Each succeeding week this average mounted higher, with the exception of the one week that it rained.

"Though the tract is comparatively new already there is considerable building activity. Of late purchasers have come more and more to appreciate the ideal home atmosphere that is offered in Country Club Highlands. Not only is the property higher than other surrounding property and so can never be shut off from the cooling breezes from the Pacific Ocean, but for this same reason it is above any settling winter fogs. Located close by to three of the southlands finest Country Clubs many of the purchasers are of the opinion that Country Club Highlands will soon be one of the finest residential districts in this locality. For these reasons building has gone ahead by leaps and bounds—one group of six houses now being in the actual precess of construction while many more buyers have signified their intention of building in the immediate future.

"During the past week there has been a renewed activity amongst purchasers in their desire to obtain property adjacent to Exposition Boulevard. The potential importance of this boulevard is second only to that of Pico Boulevard, according to Director Whitnall of the city planning commission. Leading due westward after leaving Mesa Drive and paralleling the base of the Baldwin Hills, it will be one of the most scenic highways in Southern California. The necessity of this 200 foot boulevard is thoroughly understood by the planning ocmmission, which is now devoting much attention to highway problems.

Some idea of the soundness of investment values in Country Club Highlands can be obtained from the number of resales already made. During the past week there were ten resales of property, netting the owner in each case over 100 per cent on his investment.

The program for the entertainment of visitors this Sunday will be even more complete than usual. Perhaps the feature of the afternoon will be the personal appearance at the tract of Virginia Valli, a lady of quality in "The Lady of Quality," the latest Universal-Super Jewel feature. She will entertain visitors and assist in the distribution of the cash prizes. To provide thrills for the crowd, Gladys Roy, daring aviatrix, and holder of the women's longest parachute drop record in the world, will be on hand. She will not only perform her daring feats on a plane, but will also demonstrate her parachute drop. Floyd Reese and his Coastonian orchestra from the original Club Royale of New York City will play throughout the afternoon,while to conclude the program some lucky visitor will be presented with a Ford touring car.

Miss Virginia Valli, a lady of quality in "The Lady of Quality," latest Universal-Super Jewel feature soon to be released. Miss Valli will entertain visitors to Country Club Highlands, Pico boulevard, Sunday afternoon.

MEXICO

Are you interested in knowing where the greatest land opportunity in Mexico is today? The richest, most fertile lands in the world? Lands at $15 to $35 an acre from which you can net from $150 to $250 annually and not even have to lift your finger? Just manage your way and live like a king? For the past 7 years I have acted as land scout on the West Coast of Mexico. I know every road and deer trail, ranch, village and the people. I know West Coast Mexican lands. I own and farm 1000 acres of the richest, most fertile soil in the world. It's not 10 cent, $1.00 or $5.00 land; you can buy that sort of worthless stuff anywhere. It is 40 miles from Mazatlan. I know that around Mazatlan the lands are richest, the climate ideal, rainfall abundant, transportation, both rail and water, the best, a market for your products and a modern, up-to-date city housing a large prosperous American Colony. The richest, most fertile lands are the bottom lands and they are very limited. $15.00 to $35.00 an acre according to improvements and acreage cleared is ridiculously cheap while similar lands here would cost $500 to $2000 an acre. I optioned just four places that run from 2000 to 5000 acres; real bargains—opportunities of a lifetime, either to purchase outright or to syndicate and sub-divide. I'm willing to meet you if interested, and help work out a plan of any legitimate kind to purchase, only you'll have to step today—not tomorrow—opportunities like these do not wait. I'll guarantee the titles perfect, and my reports correct. These lands should double and treble in value in a short time, while your profits from crops will astound you. Just get in touch with me and let me tell you about this wonderful rich spot in Mexico on the West Coast, south of Los Angeles, and these tracts of rich land in particular. Write today and I'll arrange to see you or you can call at the office and get full information.

BABSON TALKS OF BUSINESS AND THE STEEL INDUSTRY

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass., Oct. 26.—"The steel industry gives us both a barometer and a thermometer of business," according to Roger W. Babson, whose associates have just completed a survey of this great industry.

"Steel prices," says Mr. Babson in a statement issued today, "tend to follow general business—to act as a thermometer in measuring, roughly, prosperity or depression. During the early months of this year, business was active and the price of steel billets advanced 30 per cent from January to April. It was evident by them that the improvement had been overdone and business took to caution and convalent.

"Iron and steel prices very naturally followed. For the past six months production has dropped and prices have been steadily declining. Despite the readjustment to date, I do not feel that steel prices or production have reached the low point. It should be borne in mind that during the war period our producing capacity was greatly stimulated. The actual output of steel in 1913 was about 31,000,000 tons with a producing capacity of probably 35,000,000. So far this year the steel industry has operated on a basis of more than 40,000,000 tons annually, a rate materially over the actual output of recent years. As a matter of fact the abnormal stimulation in steel output started in August, 1921. In 1922 total output jumped 75 per cent over the previous year, while production during the first nine months of this year stands over 60 per cent above the same period of last year. However, the main point is, if this country were called upon, we could produce steel at between 56,000,000 and 58,000,000 tons annually. Even today at the current rate of 40,000,000 tons, we are producing more steel than we can consume and export. Nor should be lose sight of the fact that our European neighbors expanded their steel producing capacity to cope with abnormal war needs.

"The underlying situation is well defined by unfilled tonnage—the barometer—which from the low in February, 1922, of 4,141,000 tons, climbed with little interruption to 7,403,000 tons in March of this year. Today, six months later, unfilled tonnage has dropped to approximately 5,000,000. General business as reflected in the Babsonchart has dropped to 10 per cent below normal. My main thought is that although no radical departure from the present price level is indicated, a survey of actual conditions shows that the weight is certainly on the bear side, as it is in most lines today.

"On the financial side we find further evidence of this slowing up, in the amount of recent financing which has been undertaken by some of the newer companies," continued Mr. Babson. "During periods of record-breaking business, new financing, it is true, may be required by the old conservative manufacturers for justifiable expansion as well as the new ones. It is a characteristic sign of the beginning of a sharp competitive period, however, when many new offerings of funded debt with specially attractive promises appear in connection with corporate names that are new to investment lists. The absence of any new financing on the part of older concerns at such periods, always is noticeable. It is the time when the more experienced management is conserving resources, limiting new business to established capacity and reducing indebtedness rather than taking on more overhead. Signs of this stage of business have not been lacking in the iron and steel industry this year. The wisdom of the restraint shown by the largest factors at the peak of demand early in the year, now is apparent. Already certain of their more aggressive new competitors are falling by the wayside.

"A few of the seasoned concerns which have consistently turned surplus back into equipment without increasing capitalization offer sound bonds for investment. This is as far as the conservative investor should go at the present time.

"Those who would purchase iron and steel stocks as a speculation must weigh the outlook with the understanding of the position which they accept as stockholders—that of merchandisers in the commodity. Success lies in buying when business is slack and the commodity low, to sell when business is brisk and commodity prices high. From this test it must be apparent that it is not yet time to look for attractive purchases in iron and steel stocks."

REAL DREAM TRACT IS GRANDE VISTA

Beautiful Homes Being Built; Improvements Now In

There is only one northwest.

Meaning, in short, that when the available homesites in the beautiful northwestern section of Glendale have all been taken, those who may now be undecided as to buying one or more lots in that section, will have to buy as close as they can to that extremely favored locality. They will have to take the less desirable homesites.

The moral, therefore, is, "Buy now."

Grande Vista offers the very opportunity the prospective buyer in that locality has been looking for. It is a tract supreme—a home location that is not surpassed and is equalled by very few sections of Southern California.

There are very few lots on the slopes of this tract left. A few weeks ago this subdivision was presented to the homesite buyers of this section. Immediately the lots came into demand, this growing as the days and weeks passed. Only a few of these lower lots remain for those who desire lots of this character.

The land farther up the hillsides is now being cut up. Already on the hillside land are two beautiful homes, one costing $30,000 and belonging to Donald C. Barbee, the other belonging to E. Keyes, costing about $25,000. The hillside lots immediately adjoin the property on which these homes are located. Every lot is a high class site for a high class home.

Already several homes are being erected on the sloping lots of this tract. One of these is the residence of George F. McGuire, which is now in course of construction. This will be located on Vista drive and will be a credit to both Glendale and the Grande Vista tract.

"Grande Vista," said Mr. McGuire, salesmanager of the tract, "is located on the green slopes of the Verdugo hills, and offers homesites which command a charming view. There is no wider view of the San Fernando valley and of the Hollywood mountains. Homesites in Southern California commanding a view similar to ours are bringing fabulous prices and are being snapped up by wealthy people. Our tract is attracting a high class of property buyers."

"Dream Valley"

FOR twenty-five fleet minutes the motor sings before us, from Los Angeles into Glendale, the nation's prodigy in stripling cities. Speedily we surge through Glendale and out the broad Verdugo Road....Flashes of dainty homes set against the canyon sides for two short miles .....Smoothly we round a graceful curve, pass beneath a lacy archway of ancient oaks and there, in a vast panorama of "dreams come true" is Montecito Park, in Sparr Heights.... And in all the marvelous Southland paradise, no such exquisite beauty is yours as in Montecito Park. Your knowledge of California loveliness is neglected without the sight of it.

Miles and miles of sun-swept acres...guarded to the north by the sentinel Sierra Madras, to the west by the green, tree-clad Verdugo Hills, to the east by the great San Rafaels ....silently giving an atmosphere of safety, of "alls" right in His World."

Montecito Park, in Sparr Heights, a year ago was beautiful. Broad acres, heavy with purple fruit, curving gently to meet the racing slopes of fruit, bending trees, but that was all.

In one swift twelvemonth all this has changed. Men with vision, power, gigantic resources, have poured hundreds of thousands of dollars into taming the wild beauty of this "dream valley" into concord with the best thought of modern life. Keen-eyed engineers have driven winding concrete highways through the hills of Montecito Park, architects—more, artists—have nestled homes of wondrous fairness against the slopes, half hidden in the tall trees, half buried in bowers of flaming flowers.

* * *

IN the center of Sparr Heights stands a mammoth community building, gift of the envisioned developers of this residential city to their people. And back against the hills arises a dear old English manse—to outward seeming—rambling, half-timbered and stucco. It's the Oakmont Country Club. Here are racing to completion the big clubhouse, with its mammoth swimming pools, and an eighteen-hole golf course.

Nearby is the restricted business district....Everything is zoned in Montecito Park and Sparr Heights. (Montecito Park is solely for residences, costing from $7500 up, and approved by an architectural committee.)

And what has been the approval of this vast project, this wonderful new residential city?

THIS: Thousands of people have found in Montecito Park and Sparr Heights—(twenty-five minutes out of the roaring heart of the metropolis Los Angeles)—the homeland supreme in its delights; have paid a total of $2,000,000 in one year for their homesites and business places here!

EASTERN TIDE OF HUMANITY IS HEADED TOWARD GLENDALE

THE ENTIRE EAST IS HEADED THIS WAY SAYS JOHN ROBERT WHITE

Never Before in the History of This Country Has Such a Desire to Come to Southern California Been Manifest; No More Blizzards for Easterners

ONE CARAVAN HAS 100 CARS—250 PEOPLE

Improved Business Conditions Make It Possible for Easterners to Sell Out and Come West; Prospects Bright for Continued Good Times in Glendale

"Ninety per cent of the people living in the eastern states have their eyes on Southern California," declared John Robert White, 347 North Orange street, this morning. Mr. White recently completed a rug-buying trip in the large eastern cities, including Boston, New York and Philadelphia.

"Practically all of this 90 per cent are intending, some day, to move to this section, and that as quickly as possible. When I was passing in Kansas City recently there was a whole flock of California-bound easterners. This caravan had started from New York city and had headed westward. At the start there were but a few machines, but as the outfit camped along the way, in the various automobile camps, others who were bound for California were picked up. By the time the caravan had reached Kansas City it numbered about 100 machines and 250 persons. All of these people were coming to California to live. Through every city they journeyed they let it be distinctly known that they were headed for Southern California, thereby adding to the advertising for this section. This is just one bunch headed this way—and there are many others.

"When I started east I determined to advertise Glendale as much as possible—providing I had a chance. I did not have to look for that chance for everywhere I went people were wild to learn of this section. The folks back there have had enough of that country which is either extremely hot or extremely cold. They have heard of Southern California and whenever anyone from this section comes within hailing distance of them they pester the life out of them.

"'Tell us more of Southern California,'" is their cry.

"No matter where I went I went I found that the people are looking this way. They intend to start west at the first opportunity. The improved financial and business conditions in the east are enabling more and more to realize their dreams in this line, for, as property is selling better than it has for years, these folks are able to dispose of their holdings back there, and start west.

"So far as I can see this influx of easterners cannot stop for years. Never before have I noticed such a desire to get to California on the part of the folks of the east. They are simply wild to get under way with Southern California as their destination. They soak up the information we people from this section have to give as spounge soaks up water. They can't get too much of it. They are willing to interrupt a business deal any time to learn more of this section.

"I come back to Glendale with assurance that greater prosperity is going to be experienced in Glendale in the future than it has in the past. This talk of things 'slowing up' is unfounded. I am convinced that just as long as the easterners continue to pour into this section, so long will we know prosperity. Our advancement, in a very great measure, depends on the newcomer. This being true I believe Glendale's prosperity will continue—cannot help but continue—for as never before the easterner is pouring in and from what I know I believe he is going to continue to come here.

"With this flood of eastern humanity, brain power and money headed this way you can't hinder Glendale from forging ahead.

"I'm looking for even better times than ever before."

FARM DEFLATION ENDED IS REPORT OF SURVEY MADE

The process of deflating of farm land values over the United States and Canada has already begun to be succeeded by a new movement in the farm land market. Farm lands are beginning to sell, and farm values in a number of sections of the United States are already on the up grade. That is the finding of a survey of the farm land market just completed by the National Association of Real Estate Boards from a questionnaire on farm economic conditions sent to 2000 farm land dealers throughout the United States and Canada.

The conclusions of the survey, the first of the kind ever made and the first undertaking in which farm dealers have ever co-operated on a continent-wide scale, are unquestionable evidence that better days are ahead for the American farmer.

Eastern Nebraska, some parts of Iowa, Eastern Kansas and some parts of Illinois are the regions most notably showing an awakened movement in farm lands. North Carolina also reports a very active market.

The market is also reported better in Saskatchewan and Alberta. The opinion from Canada is unanimous that the farmer is in better position now than last year, but in some sections, particularly Manitoba, farm lands are not moving very rapidly.

The mountain states and the far west report a slow market but hope for the future.

The market in the eastern states area. The majority of the reports from New York, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey indicate a sluggish condition with the effects of the large cities and high wages very evident in a scarcity of buyers.

One of the greatest difficulties in the south apparently arises from the shortage of labor. Northern migration of the negro, as well as his movement toward the city, is responsible for the shortage which some of the states are feeling.

The farmer is getting back on his feet, recurring comments indicate but one of the drawbacks in the present situation is that many people, newspapers, and other general publications, are taking the situation of the farmer more seriously than he takes it himself and offer sympathy where sympathy is not desired.

Even the dolls are up to date these days and wear their knitted clothes with quite an air. One doll wears a sport dress and hat, another a cape and tam.

COFFEE DEFENDED AND EXTOLLED BY SAVANT

BOSTON, Oct. 25.—"Coffee is a beverage which, properly prepared and rightly used, gives comfort and inspiration, augments mental and physical activities and may be regarded as the servant rather than the destroyer of civilization."

Professor Samuel C. Prescott of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, after three years of scientific research on the subject, made this sweeping reply to those who have been attacking coffee.

As head of the Department of Biology and Public Health of Massachusetts Tech., Professor Scott had direct supervision of the long study which cost $40,000 to make. During the continuous experiments the entire laboratory was given over exclusively to purposes of coffee research and more than 1,000 reports were reviewed and digested.

"It may be stated," Prof. Prescott said, in his address to the convention, "that after weighing the evidence a dispassionate evaluation of the data so comprehensively surveyed has led to no conclusions that coffee is an injurious beverage for the great mass of human beings but on the contrary that history of human experience as well as the results of scientific experimentation point to the fact that coffee is a beverage which, properly prepared and rightfuly used, gives comfort and inspiration, augments mental and physical activities and may be regarded as the servant rather than the destroyer of civilization. The time and place do not permit a recital of the great masterpieces of literature, music and art which have been produced under its beneficient exhiliration or more than a suggestion as to the place caffein containing beverages take in the dietary of the progressive nations of the earth.

"Coffee if properly prepared has a remarkable stimulating and fatigue relieving effect due to the action of the caffein which acts on the central nervous system. It promotes heart action, mildly increases the power to do muscular work and increases the power of concentration of mental effort and therefore is an aid to sustained brain work. It has no depressing after effect. It is not habit forming and does not require continually increasing quantities to give satisfactory stimulation. The action of caffein might be likened for purpose of visulization to lubrication of machines although the analogy is not perfect."

MODERN SCHOOLS OPENED IN GUAM BY U. S. TEACHER

[By Associated Press]

AGANA, Guam., Oct. 27.— The first professional American teachers ever brought to the Island of Guam, which the United States took over from Spain 25 years ago, have just arrived here.

Chaplain W. L. Thompson, U. S. N., who was detailed as head of the department of education of Guam in 1921, says he will now be able to modernize the school system of the island. Up-to-date text books have arrived from the United States, and the chaplain will now be able to extend the course of studies for the native children. One-third of all the revenue of the island government is expended for education.

The new American teachers, Dr. Thomas Collins and four young women, will perform a veritable missionary work in giving the Chamorro children a knowledge of the English language, which Chaplain Thompson says is the most necessary element in the effort for general development. Chaplain Thompson and Dr. Collins have started a normal school which will give the native teachers their first opportunity to learn accurate English and approved methods and principles of teaching.

The rapid increase in native population since the American occupation, according to the governor of Guam, Captain H. B. Price, U. S. N., has brought the number of children in school up to 2500. Of this number approximately 300 are more than 12 years old and attend school voluntarily. There are now 16 school buildings with 63 native teachers in charge.

For the first time in the history of American rule in Guam, the native communities surrounding the schools are showing an active interest in education, Governor Price reports. One group of Chamorros recently salvaged a 70-foot spar from the beach, dragged it many miles up-hill and helped install it as a flag pole in front of a school building. In the village of Piti, the people recently voluntarily painted their school house.

The supervision of schools in the more remote districts has its hazards. Chaplain Thompson and Dr. Collins make monthly inspection trips through dense jungle and swamp, mounted on bulls. These plodding animals, gentle enough when handled by a native, become suddenly spirited at the unfamiliar touch of white men, and riding them adds a certain sporting element to school teaching in the tropics.

The naval medical officers on Guam have accomplished remarkable results through examining all school children and treating them at the navy hospital here for defects of the eyes, teeth, and their general health. The superstitious fear of the hospital gradually is being overcome, and some natives have actually entered a hospital voluntarily. In outlying villages the navy hospital corps look after the children, give first-aid lessons to the native teachers, and serve the medical needs of the community in every way.

An exhibition of temper is invariably a free show.

CASTLE HEIGHTS LOTS SELLING RAPIDLY

Fifty thousand dollars worth of property, representing half of the lots in Castle Heights, have already been disposed of, according to the owners and subdividers of the tract, Hamlin & Hepburn, 203 West Broadway, Glendale. This tract, which is one of the most beautiful pieces of land out-of-doors, is situated on Mountain street, immediately adjoining the golf course of W. C. Brand.

Years and years ago Mr. Brand traveled this country over in his endeavor to find an ideal place for his home. This entire country was open to him and he was free to select the spot of his choice. He chose the beautiful location now known as Brand's canyon, where Mr. Brand's castle is located.

Castle Heights is next door to Brand's castle. It is close to the place where, years and years ago, Mr. Brand selected as the most beautiful spot in the entire valley. Money could not buy the Brand estate, but a very little will purchase a homesite in this tract.

The grade stakes for Winchester and Mountain streets in this tract have been set and within a few days the work of street grading will be under way and it will be rushed to completion.

There are just a few lots left in this tract. The wonderful view that may be secured from these homesites and the cooling breezes that come direct from the Pacific to this tract have literally compelled sales. It is only necessary for the owners of this tract to show the property—the charm of the tract does the rest.

The prices at which these lots are being sold—$1,750 to $2,750—have a great deal to do with the volume of sales in this tract. The terms, too, are an important feature. These lots are being sold on a down payment of $300 with two per cent per month.

Everything in the way of improvements is included in the price of these lots, such as water, gas, curbs, gutters, sidewalks and good macadam streets.

You should always empty the water out of the kettle after using it and rinse it thoroughly before filling with fresh water. This prevents the thick white sediment from forming at the bottom that so soon cakes the sides of the kettle if not rinsed.

MOTOR IS ON WAY TO GLENDALE

way to Glendale, the fastest growing city in America."

"Glendale is getting some real advertising out of this motor," said P. L. Hatch, manager of the Glendale Montrose Electric line this morning. "Through all of the cities and towns this locomotive travels, William Nagle, who is accompanying the machine west, is asked all kinds of questions. In fact, he is a regular information bureau, and the folks all along the line are wild to learn of Glendale. They have heard of this city but they want to know for a certainty whether all the good things they have been told are true."

A letter from Mr. Nagle to "P. L." dated October 16, contains facts that are of interest to the people of this city. It reads as follows:

"The locomotive will be delivered to me on Saturday and I will be soon on my way westward. While here I was introduced to a number of the managers and foreman of the locomotive department of the Westinghouse Electric company, where the motor was purchased. They were very nice to me and took me in as one of them. They showed me the whole plant. I was told there are twenty thousand men and women employed there. They gave me a pass so that I might be at liberty to go to any part of the plant at any time.

"The managers tell me our locomotive made quite a hit at Atlantic City and Glendale got a good deal of publicity. They have arranged everything that I will need for my comfort in the locomotive, such as bed, heating and cooking stove and fuel for the lantern so I will have nothing to look out for but food. They thought I should not be over eighteen days on the road, but I would allow a month.

"I am anxious to be away from here and back in Glendale. This is sure a smoky and dirty city. Believe me, I will certainly be glad to see the old fireside again. Those folks who cannot make up their minds as to whether or not they like California ought to come here for a while. I guess that would make them see that there is no place like California."

PREDICTS GREAT ACTIVITY FOR VALLEY

Mr. Reiss, President of the Magnolia Park Development Company, which is subdividing Magnolia Park, on Magnolia Boulevard between Lankershim and Burbank, for E. A. White, the owner, was very enthusiastic when approached as to his opinion of the future of the San Fernando Valley.

"Do I think this is a normal, healthy growth, or just a spasmodic booming?" said he. "Why, just consider a moment. The railroads are bringing to Southern California approximately five hundred thousand people a year. Tourists, of course, yet statistics show that one hundred thousand of these remain as permanent residents. Sixty to eighty per cent of the latter either become, or plan to become shortly, land and home owners.

Many of them prefer to live in suburban communities and enjoy the friendliness and neighborliness which are never found in a large city due to natural conditions; many others, for financial reasons, prefer to enter a community and grow up with it, realizing that their opportunity to achieve independence is much greater than it would be amongst the hundreds of thousands in a populous city; again, small towns in Southern California have a way of springing, almost overnight, into full being as real cities, as witness Long Beach, Glendale, Hollywood and others—and when this happens profits soar to heights that are unbelievable.

Consider, then, that the San Fernando Valley, enclosed by mountains which temper the cooler days of winter, yet has cooling breezes through the passes in summer; a wonderfully rich agricultural district with soil which will grow practically any crop in profusion—consider what the cities in this valley have to offer to those who settle here. Then consider the tremendous possibilities for profit that a new community located between two of the fastest growing cities in the valley, selling at present pre-development prices, presents to the buyer.

All these facts, and many others which I have not time to mention at present, have evidently been carefully considered by a large number of shrewd, conservative business men and women, for in no other way can I account for the unexpectedly large sale of lots in Magnolia Park, for the past ten days have seen the disposal of practically half of Unit No. 2.

Pres. Reiss of the Magnolia Park Development Company, which is selling Magnolia Park.

FILIPINO SAVES DOG, BUT KILLS DAD

Benito took exception to his brother Patricio's treatment of Benito's dog, and drew his bolo. The father of the boys intervened, receiving bolo wounds of which he died within a few minutes. Patricio was badly wounded. Benito was arrested by the constabulary and now faces a charge of murder.

Important Rulings as to Income Taxes

Checking of motion picture theaters and other places of amusement, which collect admission taxes for the government, having been completed, acting under special instructions from Washington, the collector of internal revenue yesterday inaugurated an intensive drive for the collection of delinquent or evaded taxes on the sale of jewelry.

Every mercantile establishment that handles jewelry or any taxable article coming under that classification, will be checked and where prompt returns have not been filed or where evidence of wilful evasion of the law is disclosed, penalties ranging from 25 per cent to 50 per cent of the tax due up to $10,000 or one year's imprisonment or both will be imposed.

The pick of the field deputies in Southern California district have been assigned to the jewelry tax drive. Pawn brokers will come in for a special investigation during the probe.

Prompt filing of returns on jewelry sales will be insisted on and it was announced that the policy of the Internal revenue bureau from now on will be to impose penalties in all cases where returns are not filed on time.

Under an income tax ruling received from Washington yesterday by Collector of Internal Revenue Rex Goodcell, civic leagues and social welfare organizations, being specifically exempted under the revenue acts of 1918 and 1921, are not charitable organizations within the meaning of section 231, and contributions to such leagues or organizations are not deductible in the individual income tax returns of doners under the provisions of section 214 of either act.

The decision points out that considering subdivisions six and eight of section 231 together, it is seen that a distinction is made between religious, charitable, scientific, literary, and educational organizations, on the other hand, and civic and social welfare organization, within the term "charitable" in its broadest sense, but in making this distinction between organizations, according to their various purposes, congress was necessarily precluded from using the word in its broad sense.

Mrs. Van H. Wilkinson and Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward attended the Alpha Phi luncheon of the Southern California Alumni held Thursday at the home of Mrs. Frank Lang in Eagle Rock. Mrs. Wilkinson is chairman of the Pan-hellenic committee and Mrs. Hayward is secretary-treasurer.

ROSSMOYNE UNIT NO. 3 OPENS TODAY

Glendale Investors Are Given Chance to Get In Right

Unit No. 3 of Rossmoyne opens today.

This should mean something to the man or woman who is looking for a place for a pretty little home. It should mean a great deal to the fellow who has a little money to invest and who would like to see it grow.

Unit No. 1 of this tract was sold out in 60 days. Every one of those days consisted of 24 hours of victory for the Haddock-Nibley company, owners and subdividers of Rossmoyne.

Unit No. 2, although just a week or so on the way is being snatched up equally as rapidly as did the initial unit. In fact the wave of sales seems to be gaining momentum as the days go by, this bringing a result that is extremely satisfactory to the selling concern. Sales totaling $10,000 are being made daily.

Now comes Unit No. 3. This, declare the owners, is better even than those that have gone before, and best of all the property buyers of Glendale are being given first chance in the matter of purchasing this property. The lot buyers of this place are given the first opportunity of picking up the cream. That the people of this place will avail themselves of this chance to get in on the ground floor goes without saying.

It should be remembered that nothing but the highest type of improvements are being installed in this tract. This includes concrete streets, an ornamental lighting system, sidewalks and curbs, electricity, water gas—everything in fact, that a strictly up-to-the-minute tract should have.

Now about prices. Travel far and wide, go anywhere you will and you will not find more reasonable prices and terms than those that have been placed on the lots in Rossmoyne. They are right, and the treatment afforded by the company is also all that could be expected.

Cross California Highway Gets Big Boost in Olympia

Representing the governor of California and the California highway commission, Harvey M. Toy, chairman of the California highway commission, in the initial event of the three-day celebration of the opening of the Pacific highway from Britisih Columbia to the California line, on Wednesday spoke at the official dedication ceremonies of the Washington section of the Pacific highway held at Oympia.

Describing California's plan to as soon as possible complete the California section of the Pacific highway from the Oregon line to Mexico, Chairman Toy stated in part as follows:

"The entire state of California is interested in the rapid completion of the Pacific highway which is the main road through California between the northern and southern boundaries. This road is now paved with the exception of certain sections of the road from Redding to the Oregon line.

"The former highway commission for some reason or another seemed not to appreciate the tremendous necessity for this road, as evidenced by the fact that more travel came over this road this year than through any other entrance to the state.

"With the small amount of funds available, the California highway commission stands committed to a policy of constructing the main traffic lines and the interstate connections before taking into consideration any minor roads. While the Pacific highway is a first and second bond issue road, and we have no funds in the first and second bond issue, we are going to use every dollar available from other sources to do work on this main artery."

Leaving Olympia Thursday morning, Toy is scheduled to accompany the caravan, bound for the interstate bridge between Vancouver, Washington and Portland, Oregon, where the burial ceremonies of "Old Man Detour" will be solemnized. That evening a banquet is to be held, at which addresses will be made by Governor Walter M. Pierce, of Oregon, Governor Hart of Washington, Honorable Dr. W. H. Sutherland, minister of public works, British Columbia, Harvey M. Toy, representing the governor of California, and others.

Finally, the caravan will wend its way from Portland to Salem, where on Friday morning the formal opening of the Oregon section of the Pacific highway will take place. Here again P. H. Carylon, general chairman of the celebration, has scheduled Chairman Toy to speak before the people of Oregon, assuring them of California's desire to complete the Pacific highway through California at the earliest possible moment.

GRANDE VISTA

THE SUPERIORITY OF THE VERDUGO FOOTHILLS AS GLENDALE'S HIGHEST CLASS RESIDENTIAL SECTION IS UNQUESTIONED

Nowhere has the demand for homesites been greater, or the advantage in value more consistent—and of all the offerings in this district none can surpass GRANDE VISTA, just west of Brand's Estate. Each lot commands a marvelous panoramic view of all Glendale and the Valley; each lot is advantageously situated high in the foothills. "GETTING MONEY OF PEOPLE" IS SUBJECT OF PROMINENT SPEAKER

J. K. Baillie, Financial Editor of Los Angeles Express, Gives Much Valuable Information Concerning Investments, to Kiwanis Club

MORTGAGE REQUIREMENTS HAVE BIG TOTAL

Dishonest Oil Stock Promoters Are Generally Condemned; "Unit Plan Is Same Pill With Different Coating," the Speaker Declares

Following is address in part of J. K. Baillie, financial editor of the Los Angeles Express, before the Kiwanis club at its noon luncheon at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse:

If you would take one of the beach cities as a center and with a radius of 100 miles draw a semi-circle to the north and eastward, you would have within the boundaries of the circular line an area that will require perhaps more new capital in the next 10 years than any other area of equal size in the country. This is a comparatively new country and we need stupendous totals of capital to take care of the incoming population.

"The mortgage requirements alone for this area are in the neighborhood of $1,500,000 daily. This would indicate something in the neighborhood of $3,000,000 daily for building requirements. At least $100,000,000 annually will be spent in municipal improvements. Four new factories daily are opening their doors and these will require on an average of $50,000 each, so that this total will run up into something like $60,000,000 annually. Tydro-electric requirements will be a minimum of $100,000,000 annually so that we reach the snug total of something over seven hundred millions annually of necessary capital to carry forward our major projects. Including private enterprises of one kind and another, you could probably double this amount and not be far from the necessary total. Notwithstanding the urgent need and use for every dollar of available capital, hundreds of "get-rich-quick" operators are now infesting the southland and by hook and crook are getting the public's money. Southern California has been advertised to the world as a business white spot. This has been the magnet that has attracted the Wallingfords and the Blackie Daws from the four corners of the earth. Where business is active and money is plentiful there they ply their nefarious trade.

"I am going to give you the facts and figures concerning a number of local promotions offered to Glendale investors during the past year or so. Unlike the Wallingfords of fiction, our promoters will be men of real flesh and blood and the scene of their operations will be our own Southern California.

"It was a little over two years ago that W. L. Barnard, a notorious promoter of Cotton City, Arizona, arrived in Los Angeles. He looked the town over and decided to operate there. He applied to the State Corporation Department for a permit, as is necessary before selling securities in this state, and was refused. Not discouraged, however, he looked around and finally hit upon the idea that if he could secure the charter of an old company organized before the operative date of our "blue sky laws" he would be immune from department interference. He acquired such a charter, changed its name to the Huntington-Hawthorne Oil company and proceeded to sell stock. In a short time he had taken in over $300,000. Investigation disclosed that he had never paid for the machinery and all he had was two small leases with a nominal value. Only about one cent on each dollar ever reached the treasury of the company to be used for legitimate company purposes. The promoter was indicted and finally escaped on a technicality.

"A short time back Texas oil promotions were all the craze. They took several hundred thousand dollars out of Glendale and other cities Southern California. There were 273 Texas oil promotions offered to California investors from the period of January 1, 1918, to December 31, 1921. Their history is interesting. Several months ago we made a very careful investigation, checking up their present status. Here is the result: 241 are now absolutely worthless. 12 paid dividends but a short time. 10 are worth 20c on the dollar and 10 are worth not to exceed 75c on the dollar. Not one of them made good. Of course there are many successful and highly meritorious Texas oil companies. I am referring only to that class of promoters who peddle their stock direct to small investors.

"We hear a great deal these days of oil units and very little of oil stock. The promoters have come to realize that operating under the corporate form is playing with fire. It was necessary for them to make reports to the state authorities. They were under the jurisdiction of the State Corporation department, and once a corporation was started it was necessary for them to stay with it and maintain its offices after the stock selling campaign was over. They also found that the public's interest in oil stock was waning so they introduced the unit plan. It is the same old pill with a different coating. Some of the investors in the so-called unit concerns will be surprised some day to wake up and find themselves a partner in the business and subject to a partner's liability. Our laws protect and definitely define a stockholder's rights and privileges, the right of production and to sell his product. It is possible for him to retain a substantial portion of the stock, leaving the unit holders to run the enterprise. If anything goes wrong, the unit holders hold the sack and the promoter has the money.

"It is the lure of a thousand dollars for one that gets the sucker money in the oil promotion. Few of these investors stop to figure out the probable returns on their money. The recoverable oil content per acre is well established in the producing fields. In Santa Fe Springs it runs around 150,000 barrels per acre. Signal Hill 140,000 barrels per acre, and Huntington Beach 130,000 barrels per acre. It of course does not follow that the oil recovered through any one well will be limited to these amounts per acre, but it does mean that taking the field as a whole, that the recoverable oil will be approximately these figures. Figuring the cost of drilling at $80,000 it will be seen that the unit concern with two or three acres has little or no chance of paying back even dollar for dollar if they do get oil. In considering an oil speculation, there should be at least a possible return of 30 to 1 to justify the hazard of the original investor.

"There are 32 stock selling organizations operating in California. Each of these has a large corps of salesmen soliciting business. There is a small army of men and women out after the investor's money. Unlike the oil promoter, they hold out no lure of unusual profits. Their sales are based on the representation that they are handling safe, sound and proven issues of established merit and they sell to people who do not want to speculate. These are not legal frauds, but in many instances the public loses just the same. They deal in established lines of merchandise, such as building materials, dried fruit, automobiles, hardware and almost any line you would care to mention. One of these concerns has sold over 27,000 people—over $4,000,000 worth of stock in various enterprises, and it is common knowledge in their office that over a quarter of a million of dollars was taken out of the city of Glendale. I refer to H. W. Dubiske & Co. The Stephens-Duryea company is now in receivers hands. It was sold by Dubiske on a basis of $150 for a unit of one share of common and one share of preferred. Today it is worth less than $10 for the same unit. They have offered 12 issues and not one of the 12 has made good to the investor. They are all selling in the open market for a fraction of the price paid by local investors.

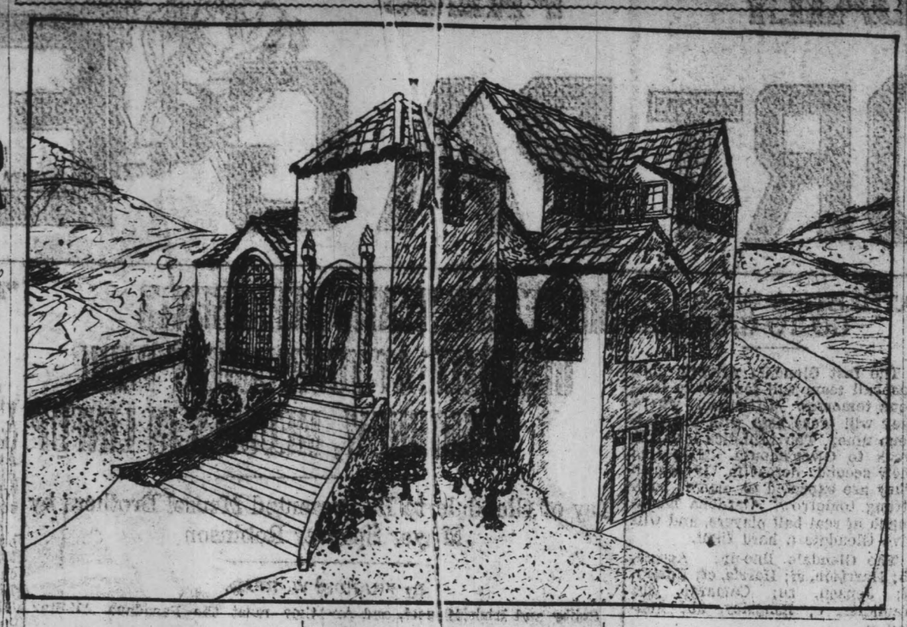
"It is often suggested that comparatively small amounts are involved in these various security selling schemes. I have before me a list of ten companies, each of which sold their securities locally. Practically every dollar invested in these ten companies is lost. The amount of money they secured from the public range from $145,000 to $610,000, an average of $350,000 to each promotion or a total of $3,500,000 for the ten. There are perhaps 100 such companies in operation, so you can get some idea of the magnitude of this business.

"The State Corporation department is doing splendid work. Their jurisdiction is limited and the number of employees entirely too small to begin to properly handle all of the companies that pass through their office. Corporation Commissioner E. M. Daugherty is working night and day, and they are saving investors of the state millions of dollars annually. At best they can but curb the evil. Education is the real remedy. Educate the boys and girls in the high schools and the young men and the young women of the universities in the fundamentals of safe investments, and when that times comes the operations of the "get-rich-quick" promoters will be a thing of the past.

"There are certain ear-marks of the faker and these I want you to know. He is always in a hurry—buy today—tomorrow will be too late. He usually has some cute kind of organization that is supposed to give extra benefits to the investor. The men in his company are generally unknown where the securities are being sold. The character and type of the business should come under very careful analysis. He usually holds out the lure of large profits while other concerns conducting a like business have only found it possible to make normal returns. He invariably attempts a substitution of securities—will take what you have and give you something better. He has a stock argument against bonds and low yield securities and he very often will contract for the re-purchase of securities at a substantial advance.

"Investment is absolutely necessary to financial success. What I have said is not intended to deter anyone from properly investing their funds, but it is to point out the danger points along the investment paths. Many meritorious enterprises are being financed and have salesmen out soliciting business. These men deserve your consideration. When the time comes to invest, select a reliable investment bond or banking house. These men devote their lives to a study of investments and their success depends upon giving you good value for your money. Go to a bond house or a bank—tell them your financial situation, and you will be given some sound advice that will be profitable to follow. It is surprising what a few dollars saved each month will do over a period of years if properly invested. A man or woman who becomes a systematic saver has a good start cial independence."

Home Being Built In Grande Vista



EDGEMONT PARK IDEAL FOR HOMES

Location, climate, scenery are three things that enter vitally in the desirability and sale of any piece of property. Price, to a certain degree, is secondary. If the piece of property is ideal for home building purposes; is located close to conveniences and has a view that is desirable, the prospective buyer will very often pay a little more for his home place.

But when you have all of these desirable features along with a price that commands attention you have something extremely unusual.

That's just the situation over at Edgemont Park. It is ideally located. Lying on the Dark Canyon road between Burbank and the Ventura highway, it is extremely well situated. It is close to five cities and is on the proposed route of Riverside drive, which will provide a half hour ride into the center of Los Angeles. It has graded streets, sidewalks, curbs, electricity, water, gas—everything that is needed.

The price—from $550 up—is cheaper than anything in this neck of the woods. And the terms—$50 down and $15 and $25 per month on the lot with the privilege of $50 down and $25 per month on the house—cannot be improved upon.

Edgemont Park is an ideal home location.

Charles — "Oh, mamma, the grocer just gave me three sticks of candy!"

Mamma—"Well, you must be polite and offer your little sister two of them."

Charles—"All right, mamma, but I wish you would tell her to be polite, too, and take only one."

TRILBY

Mrs. Bagot did not go back to Devonshire. She remained in Fitzroy Square, at her son's, and spent most of her time with Trilby, doing and devising all kinds of things to divert and amuse her, and lead her thoughts gently to heaven, and soften for her the coming end of all.

Trilby had a way of saying, and especially of looking, "Thank you" that made one wish to do as many things for her as one could, if only to make her say and look it again.

And she had retained much of her old, quaint, and amusing manner of telling things, and had much to tell, still left of her wandering life, although there were so many strange lapses in her powers of memory—gaps—which, if they could only have been filled up, would have been full of such surpassing interest!

Then she was never tired of talking and hearing of Little Billee, and that was a subject of which Mrs. Bagot could never tire either!

Then there were the recollections of her childhood. One day, in a drawer, Mrs. Bagot came upon a faded daguerrotype of a woman in a Tam o'Shanter, with a face so sweet and beautiful and saint-like that it almost took her breath away. It was Trilby's mother.

"Who and what was your mother, Trilby?"

"Ah, poor mamma," said Trilby, and she looked at the portrait a long time. "Ah, she was ever so much prettier than that! Mamma was once a demoiselle de comptoir that's a barmaid, you know—at the Montagnards Ecossais, in the Rue du Paradis Poissonniere—a place where men used to drink and smoke without sitting down. That was unfortunate, wasn't it?

"Papa loved her with all his heart, although, of course, she wasn't his equal. They were married at the Embassy, in the Rue du Faubourg St. Honore.

"Her parents weren't married at all. Her mother was the daughter of a boatman on Loch Ness, near a place called Drumnadrockit; but her father was the Honorable Colonel Desmond. He was related to all sorts of great people in England and Ireland. He behaved very badly to my grandmother and to poor mamma—his own daughter! deserted them both! Not very honorable of him, was it? And that's all I know about him."

And then she went on to tell of the home in Paris that might have been so happy but for her father's passion for drink; of her parents' deaths, and little Jeannot, and so forth. And Mrs. Bagot was much moved and interested by these naive revelations, which accounted in a measure for so much that seemed unaccountable in this extraordinary woman; who thus turned out to be a kind of cousin (though on the wrong side of the blanket) to no less a person than the famous Duchess of Towers.

With what joy would that ever kind and generous lady have taken poor Trilby to her bosom had she only known! She had once been all the way from Paris to Vienna merely to hear her sing. But, unfortunately, the Svengalis had just left for St. Petersburg, and she had her long journey for nothing!

Late on one memorable Saturday afternoon, just as it was getting dusk in Charlotte Street, Trilby, in her pretty blue dressing gown, lay on the sofa by the fire—her head well propped, her knees drawn up—looking very placid and content.

A cart drove up, there was a ring at the door, and presently a wooden packing case was brought into the room.

At Trilby's request it was opened, and found to contain a large photograph, framed and glazed, of Svengali, in the military uniform of his own Hungarian band, and looking straight out of the picture, straight at you. He was standing by his desk with his left hand turning over a leaf of music, and waving his baton with his right. It was a splendid photograph, by a Viennese photographer, and a most speaking likeness; and Svengali looked truly fine—all made up of importance and authority, and his big black eyes were full of stern command.

Marta trembled as she looked. It was handed to Trilby, who exclaimed in surprise. She had never seen it. She had no photograph of him, and never possessed one.

No message of any kind, no letter of explanation, accompanied this unexpected present, which, from the postmarks on the case, seemed to have traveled all over Europe to London, out of some remote province in eastern Russia—out of the mysterious East! The poisonous East—birthplace and home of an ill wind that blows nobody good.

Trilby laid it against her legs as on a lectern, and lay gazing at it with close attention for a long time, making a casual remark now and then, as, "He was very handsome, I think," or, "That uniform becomes him very well. Why has he got it on, I wonder?"

The others went on talking, and Mrs. Bagot made coffee.

Presently Mrs. Bagot took a cup of coffee to Trilby, and found her still staring intently at the portrait, but with her eyes dilated, and quite a strange light in them.

"Trilby, Trilby, your coffee! What is the matter, Trilby?"

Trilby was smiling, with fixed eyes, and made no answer.

The others got up and gathered round her in some alarm. Marta seemed terror stricken, and wished to snatch the photograph away, but was prevented from doing so; one didn't know what the consequences might be.

Taffy rang the bell, and sent a servant for Dr. Thorne, who lived close by, in Fitzroy Square.

Presently Trilby began to speak, quite softly, in French: "Encore une fois? bon! je veux bien! avec la voix blanche alors, n'est-ce pas? et puis foncer au milieu. Et pas trop vite en commencant! Battez bien la mesure, Svengali—que je puisse bien voir—car il fait deja nuit! c'est ca! Allons, Gecko—donne-moi le ton!"

Then she smiled, and seemed to beat time softly by moving her head a little from side to side, her eyes intent on Svengali's in the portrait, and suddenly she began to sing Chopin's Impromptu in A flat.

She hardly seemed to breathe as the notes came pouring out, without words—mere vocalizing. It was as if breath were unnecessary for so little voice as she was using, though there was enough of it to fill the room—to fill the house—to drown her small audience in holy, heavenly sweetness.

She was a consummate mistress of her art. How that could be seen! And also how splendid had been her training! It all seemed as easy to her as opening and shutting her eyes, and yet how utterly impossible to anybody else!

Between wonder, enchantment and alarm they were frozen to statues—all except Marta, who ran out of the room, crying: "Gott im Himmel! wieder zuruck! wieder zuruck!"

She sang it just as she had sung it at the Salle des Bashibazoucks, only it sounded still more ineffably seductive, as she was using less voice—using the essence of her voice, in fact—the pure spirit, the very cream of it.

There can be little doubt that these four watchers by that enchanted couch were listening to not only the most divinely beautiful, but also the most astounding feat of musical utterance ever heard out of a human throat.

The usual effect was produced. Tears were streaming down the cheeks of Mrs. Bagot and Little Billee. Tears were in the Laird's eyes, a tear on one of Taffy's whiskers—tears of sheer delight.

When she came back to the quick movement again, after the adagio, her voice grew louder and shriller, and sweet with a sweetness not of this earth; and went on increasing in volume as she quickened the time, nearing the end; and then came the dying away into all but nothing—a mere melodic breath; and then the little soft chromatic ascending rocket up to E in alt, the last parting caress (which Svengali had introduced as a finale, for it does not exist in the piano score).

When it was over, she said: "Ca y est-il, cette fois, Svengali? Ah! tant mieux, a la fin! c'est pas malheureux! Et maintenant, mon ami, je suis fatiguee—bon soir!"

Her head fell back on the pillow, and she lay fast asleep.

Mrs. Bagot took the portrait away gently. Little Billee knelt down and held Trilby's hand in his and felt for her pulse, and could not find it.

He said, "Trilby! Trilby!" and put his ear to her mouth to hear her breathe. Her breath was inaudible.

But soon she folded her hands across her breast, and uttered a little short sigh, and in a weak voice said: "Svengali. . . . Svengali. . . . Svengali! . ."

They remained in silence round her for several minutes, terror stricken.

The doctor came; he put his hand to her heart, his ear to her lips. He turned up one of her eyelids and looked at her eye. And then, his voice quivering with strong emotion, he stood up and said, "Madame Svengali's trials and sufferings are all over!"

"Oh, good God! is she dead!" cried Mrs. Bagot.

"Yes, Mrs. Bagot. She has been dead several minutes—perhaps a quarter of an hour."

DAMAGED

SPORT -O- GRAMS

By FRANCIS W. READ

"The Team that Won't Be Beat, Can't Be Beat."

Jimmy Cline, coach of the University of California Southern Branch football team is responsible for the above epigram. Jimmy modestly denies the authorship of the phrase, but it is he who brought it to the attention of the writer. In the training quarters of the Cub institution the legend is neatly placarded for all aspiring gridders to read and take to heart.

It may not be literally true that mere determination to win can win a game. This is not true when a team is absolutely outclassed by its rivals, or is working under some insurmountable handicap. But it is true nevertheless that "a team that won't be beat can't be beat," for the terms "beat" and "win" are not synonomous.

It is possible for a team to go out on the field and play hard, give the best that is in it, and yet lose the game because of insurmountable odds against them. Yet at the same time that team has not been beat if it has fought every minute of the game, never once conceding defeat until the final whistle, and playing the game with true sportsmanship the whole time. It is not the score that beats a team, it is the spirit in which the game is played that determines whether or not the team has been beaten.

Spirit plays a greater part in football than most people realize. The morale of a football team is every bit as important as its physical ability and condition. The most perfect eleven on earth cannot win if the men go into the game with the idea that they are going to lose. No matter what the odds against a team are, no matter what the record of their opponents, every coach instills into his men the idea that they are going to win, and they go into the game with that in their heads. If they lose in such a case it is because their opponents played better football, not because they were scared out before they started.

There is such a thing in football as a moral victory, quite separate and aaprt from the actual victory by scores. In most instances the winning team also is the moral victor, but that is not always the case. If a team goes on the field and fights hard every minute of the game, even if the opponents roll up a tremendous score, it is possible for the losers to claim a moral victory, for if they fight to the last ditch they have proved their gameness and ability to fight with their backs to the wall. And a team that does that would stand a much better chance to win if the two elevens faced each other aagin, for the fighting team, even though it does not always win, is feared by every coach and squad.

Dynamiters Show Up Like a Million Dollars in Their Second League Game

By FAIRFIELD WILSON

Defeating Citrus by the score of 41 to 0, the Glendale High steam roller demonstrated that it was perfectly well that it could squeeze lemons as well as subdue over-playful Tigers. The result was another victory to the long string of wins the Dynamiters have to their credit this season. The game, which was the second of the Central league schedule, was played on the local gridiron. As yet the Glendale team is undefeated.

Howard Elliot again starred for the Dynamiters with his long runs and perfect boots. Horri showed up exceedingly well in the way he snaggled passes. Toward the end of the game a number of second string men went in.

K. C. BALL TEAM TO MEET ICEMEN

Glendale Knights of Columbus baseballers will take on the Pasadena Ice team tomorrow afternoon on the Park avenue diamond. The local Knights have been going strong, and have had few defeats. They are expected to put up a real exhibition of the national pastime tomorrow. The Pasadena bunch, from all reports, are real ball players, and a hot struggle should ensue. A good crowd of fans is expected to witness the game.

NIGHT SERVICE IS PLANNED ON LONDON-PARIS AIR ROUTE

[By Associated Press]

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Plans have been completed for the inauguration of night flying service between London and Paris for carrying passengers and mail. The scheme is the latest addition to the popular Paris-London service and like all the English services, will be subsidised by the government.

This improvement was urged by the post office officials as necessary if the air mail idea is to be developed adequately. Some months ago the air ministry carried out night-flying tests with much success and on the London-Paris airway there is at present a lighting arrangment on a fairly extensive scale.

Each of the new night flying machines will carry two magnesium flares on the wing tips, which can be lighted at will, in addition to another flare which can be dropped if necessary, for lighting up the landing ground and ascertaining the direction of the wind if other facilities are insufficient.

LEATHER EMBROIDERED IN BEADS

The trimmings this year display much originality. Narrow bandings of leather embroidered in beads are one of the many novelties of the season.

ATHLETICS WILL GO TO GARDENA

The fast Glendale Athletic club baseball team will journey to Gardena tomorrow afternoon, where they will cross bats with the Gardena nine. The Athletics lost last week to Owensmouth. This was their second defeat in 19 games. They are expected to come back strong tomorrow. Gardena has a bunch of real ball players, and will give Glendale a hard fight.

The Glendale line-up: Acosta, 1b; Harrison, rf; Harris, cf; Easley, lf; Jensen, ss; Camargo, 2b; Faulkner, c; Kingsley, 3b; Morgan, p.

CARDINALS AND TROJANS IN HOT GRID CONFLICT

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Oct. 27.—Cardinal and Trojan lined up for battle this afternoon before the largest crowd that has ever thronged the Stanford Stadium. Coach Elmer Henderson and his U. S. C. footballers, still suffering from their defeat last week at the hands of the Washington Huskies, swung into action aaginst the Stanford University footballers promptly at 2:30.

Crowds of students from the Trojan institution, who chartered steamships and special trains were on the job rooting for their team, while mobs of Californians were down from Berkeley in the absence of the Golden Bears at Portland, all in addition to the hugh crowds of Stanfordites and alumni of the institution. It is understood that the Californians are supporting their ancient enemies, the Cards, to trim the Trojans.

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 27.—Andy Smith and his Golden Bears started off this afternoon to capture another game from the Washington State eleven. From all indications, they were slated for an easy job, for the Cougars did not look any too impressive as they came on the field. The Blue and Gold expected a tough game, however, as Washington State is known as a fighting institution.

BIG LEAGUE TEAMS REPRESENTS GLENDALE AT TOURNAMENT PARK TOMORROW, MEUSELS IN LINFUP

Key of Glendale to Be Presented Meusel Brothers by Mayor Spencer Robinson

By FRANCIS W. READ.

Bobby and Irish Meusel, and Arnold Statz will be members of a team composed of big league baseballers, defending the name of Glendale at Tournament park, Pasadena, tomorrow afternoon, when they meet the Pasadena All-Star nine.

A crowd that will fill the park to overflowing is anticipated by Frank Kerwin, secretary of the Southern California baseball managers' association, who has arranged the game.

The fireworks will start promptly at 2:30 o'clock, when Mayor Spencer Robinson presents the Meusel boys with the key of Glendale. A huge key to the "fastest growing city in America" has been prepared for the occasion.

One of the fastest games ever seen in Southern California will be played by the two teams. It is expected that Wheezer Dell, veteran Coast League pitcher, and Lefty Thomas of the Angels will battle for mound supremacy.

Bobby and Irish will no doubt force the great Dell to show all the stuff he has. The rest of the Glendale outfit are hard hitters, and Wheezer should have a tough time of it.

Babe Herman, former Glendale High school star, will play right field for the local team. He is a genuine slugger and has a remarkable fielding record.

With Carl Sawyer, Sands, O'Brien and the rest in the line-up, Manager Mike Donlin, who himself is playing first base, expects to cop the game. Donlin is a former Giant, and has been signed to manage the Glendale team in the Winter league.

The teams will bat as follows:

GLENDALE	PASADENA
Statz, cf.	Hughes, 2b
Sawyer, 2b	Doran, 3b
B. Meusel, 3b	McNabb, ss
E. Meusel, lf	E. Haas, lf

STANDINGS AND RESULTS IN THE CENTRAL LEAGUE

	W.	L.	Pct.
Glendale	2	0	1.000
Alhambra	2	0	1.000
Covina	2	0	1.000
South Pasadena	0	2	.000
Monrovia	0	2	.000
Citrus	0	2	.000

The Central League football race still remains a three-cornered tie. While the Black and Red steam roller was crushing the Citrus Lemons on the home field yesterday, the Covina eleven handed South Pasadena a beating, while Alhambra advanced Thursday by virtue of a victory over Monrovia. Next week Monrovia comes to Glendale to play the Dynamiters. Alhambra journeys to Covina for a game, while Citrus takes on South Pasadena on the latters' field.

A new range should be very gradually heated to prevent the possibilty of cracking.

"HACK" TO MEET ARMY GRAPPLER TUESDAY NIGHT

John Hackenschmidt of Glendale will meet Joe Polk, champion of the A. E. F., in a wrestling match as the main event of the Glendale Athletic club bouts Tuesday evening. Hackenschmidt is popular with the local fans, while Polk is somewhat of a dark horse.

Several good boxing bouts have been lined up by Matchmaker Marston as preliminaries. The full card will be on this page Monday. The events will be staged at Hahn's auditorium, 109 North Brand boulevard.

GLENDALE SIGNS UP BILL DORAN

Bill Doran, formerly infielder of the Cleveland American league team has been signed to play third base for the Glendale team in the Class AAA league this winter, according to the announcement of Frank Kerwin, president of the Glendale entry.

The league schedule will be drawn up at a meeting called for Monday evening at the office of the B. H. Dyas company in Los Angeles. The only thing settled as yet is that play will start November 4.

Work on the new baseball park on South San Fernando is coming along in great shape. The ground is being cleared of all obstructions, and it is expected that actual construction will be started the first of the week.

COVINA TROUNCES TIGER GRIDDERS

Covina went another step forward in her attempt to win the Central league championship by defeating the South Pasadena eleven, 7 to 0, at Covina yesterday. Fullback Grant saved the day for Coach McIntosh's lads by converting an off-tackle into a 50-yard run which ended five yards from the South Pasadena goal line. Boots then bucked it over and Grant kicked goal.

The best crop of wild oats usually grows on the poorest soil.

CUBS FACE POETS AT MOORE FIELD IN GRID BATTLE

Football enthusiasts of Southern California today had a chance to take in some real grid battles. Three real games, two in Los Angeles and one in Redlands, were on tap for this afternoon.

Out at Moore field the Southern Branch Cubs and the Whittier Poets got under way at 2:30 in what was expected to be the fastest football tilt of the day. Both teams have a clean slate to date and were fighting hard this afternoon for a victory. Walter Westcott, captain of the Branch eleven, was back in the line-up. He has been absent from practice for several days due to injuries received in the Loyola game last Saturday. The Cubs have fought hard in the practice games and went on the field with a determination to win. Cap Harlason of the Branchers and Ed Suggett of Whittier were expected to furnish the thrills. It is estimated that in excess of 6,000 persons will see the game. This is the first appearance of the Cubs in a conference game. The two teams lined up as follows:

CUBS		POETS
Bishop	L.E.	Wilcox
Andrus	L.T.	Behnke
Molrine	L.G.	Shaffer
Colling	C.	Word
Hollingsworth	R.G.	McWilliams
Gardner	R.T.	Kimmel
Bresee	R.E.	Johnson
Parisi	Q.	Johns
Harailson	L.H.	Ferguson
Jones	R.H.	Suggett
Peak	F.	Noel

Over at the Exposition Park Coliseum the University of Southern California Freshmen and the Stanford yearlings got off for a little affray. The Trojan babes looked the better outfit, and ruled favorites with the fans.

Pomona and Redlands clashed at Redlands in what was expected to be an easy victory for the Sagehens. Both team look weak, but odds favored Pomona to win. This is the second conference game of the season for both teams.

COUGARS MEET THE CALIFORNIA BEARS IN SECOND GAME

[By Associated Press]

PULLMAN, Wash., Oct. 27.—Two full teams left last night for Portland Ore., where the Washington State College Cougars are to meet the University of California football team on Saturday.

Aerial football has been emphasized by Coach A. A. Exendine, and it is expected that this sort of play will be featured in the California game. Fast charging and bucking also has been a feature of the line practice, and followers of the team profess themselves as very much encouraged by the showing that has been made.

DAMAGED

$300,000 SALES MADE IN TWO DAYS

Wonder Homesites Are Snatched Up by Many Week-end Visitors

Announcement in all the Los Angeles papers last week of the formal opening of Bellehurst Hillslopes brought a great crowd of buyers to the tract last Saturday and Sunday, according to a report of the Walter H. Leimert company, piling up a sales record of over $300,000.

This tremendous response is conclusive proof, it is stated, that people of the southland recognized immediately the unusual opportunity offered by this unique and wonderfully beautiful new hillside subdivision.

Mr. Leimert, with a large number of high class residential subdivisions in California already to his credit, states that Bellehurst Hillslopes is his greatest achievement, for it is property which is almost impossible to duplicate anywhere and destined to stand supreme among hillside sections. It combines the advantages of the exclusive hillside home, commanding matchless views which can never be cut off, with location in the very center of the beautiful city of Glendale. Right in the city, with shops, theaters and schools conveniently near and boulevards and car line bringing down town Los Angeles within easy distance, it is still not of the city. It is property such as this, Leimert declared, that wealthy people coming to Southern California are eager to buy regardless of price; this fact, and the low opening prices, makes Bellehurst Hillslopes an investment of more than ordinary possibilities.

Bellehurst Hillslopes is a comparatively small tract and the Leimert company expect to be sold out in another two weeks, according to Mr. W. T. Sheehan, Jr., one of the live-wire salesmen for this new subdivision. He advises Glendale people to come out and make their selection without further delay.

MANY GOOD BUYS IN GLENDALE CREST

Some wonderful buys in the way of vacant homesites are still available in Glendale Crest. All of these are close-in and so located that they cannot help but increase in value rapidly.

There may be more attractive hillside home places in Glendale than Glendale Crest, but the lot buyer would certainly have to go a long way to find them. Nothing in this section surpasses this tract in scenic beauty, general appeal and chances of price advancement. With an elevation of from 750 to 860 feet this tract is high above the city. Every lot commands a view that is unsurpassed in this locality. It is, in every way, an ideal location in which to live.

This tract lies near the intersection of Verdugo and Sycamore Canyon roads. It is near schools, the Glendale-Eagle Rock electric line, and is but a short distance from the high school. Everything that is needed is there. The winding roadways, which have a base of decomposed granite and will be covered with a surface of rock, add greatly to the attractiveness of this tract.

Horn & McDill, with offices in the Lawson building, at the corner of Wilson and Brand, have been chosen as the exclusive agents in Glendale for this tract.

RUSSEL-PIERCE FURNITURE CO. HAS RENTAL BUREAU

The Russell-Pierce Furniture company of 1529 South San Fernando road is making an innovation and providing a service that promises to be of great interest, especially to newcomers. It is installing a rental bureau. Nothing but unfurnished houses will be handled. It will advertise for tenants and will naturally want the listings of all income property owners. It is believed they will respond because the intent will be not to make money but to serve the public and the property owner at the lowest figure that will cover actual expense. To that end it will be operated on a 10 percent basis, no charge being over $5. As this is a side line of the real estate broker he usually makes a charge of 25 percent and many others will not list with him. Being centralized in this particular branch, it is believed the bureau will not in any way conflict with the business of real estate brokers. The bureau expects to maintain a corps of courteous assistants whose time will be devoted to showing houses, and with a large list to select from, house hunters will be more certain of finding what they want. House owners will be asked to file detailed descriptions of their properties as the bureau does not plan to employ a listing solicitor to prepare the descriptions.

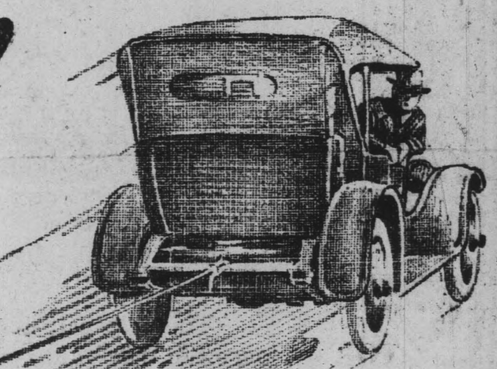
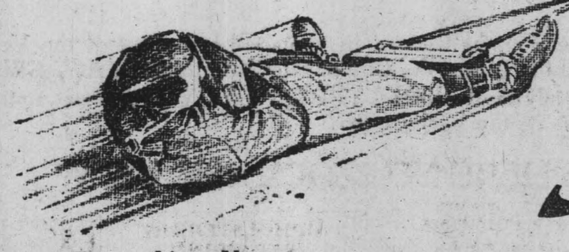
The Death Drag!





It's here at last. You'll say it can't be done

Something New Under the Sun

At last! Los Angeles is to witness the most "hair raising" stunt ever conceived by man. "Dare Devil" Miller, the man without fear, will present one of the most impossible feats ever attempted.

Can you conceive of a human being dragged behind a high powered automobile, traveling at the rate of 50 miles per hour? "Dare Devil" Miller not only allows himself to be dragged at this terrific speed, but escapes from a regulation police "Strait Jacket" while being dragged. Miller uses absolutely no protection for his body. A khaki shirt and breeches are his only equipment.

Come to Magnolia Park today and witness this astounding "Death Drag"—it will live long in your memory as being the most spectacular feat you have ever seen. You'll say a man can't do it and live. Come out and see this fearless man don the "Strait Jacket," be fastened at the end of a rope by his ankles and then be dragged over rough pavement to the tune of 50 miles per hour. Remember, he escapes from the "Strait Jacket" during the wild drag.

Magnolia Park "The Hub of Activity"

LOTS

We want everyone in Los Angeles to see Magnolia Park. We want you to see this superb piece of ground lying between two of Los Angeles' fastest growing districts. A trip out to Magnolia Park will convince even the most skeptical that here is the place above all others to invest in a lot. Building activity, like a great vice, is steadily clamping down on Magnolia Park from the east and west. A great paved Boulevard bounds Magnolia Park to the South. Consider Magnolia Park from all angles. You will agree with us that values should more than double within the next few months. Consider Magnolia Park as a homesite. Commanding as it does, the most magnificent vistas in all Southern California, with climatic conditions that cannot be equaled, Magnolia Park will be your first choice for homesite. Consider the price of these lots. Nowhere else in all Southern California can you obtain a big 50-foot lot right in the swing of tremendous development for $500. Improvements? Certainly. Gas, water, lights, streets, curbs and cement sidewalks fully paid for. The improvements alone will enhance the value of each lot at least 25%.

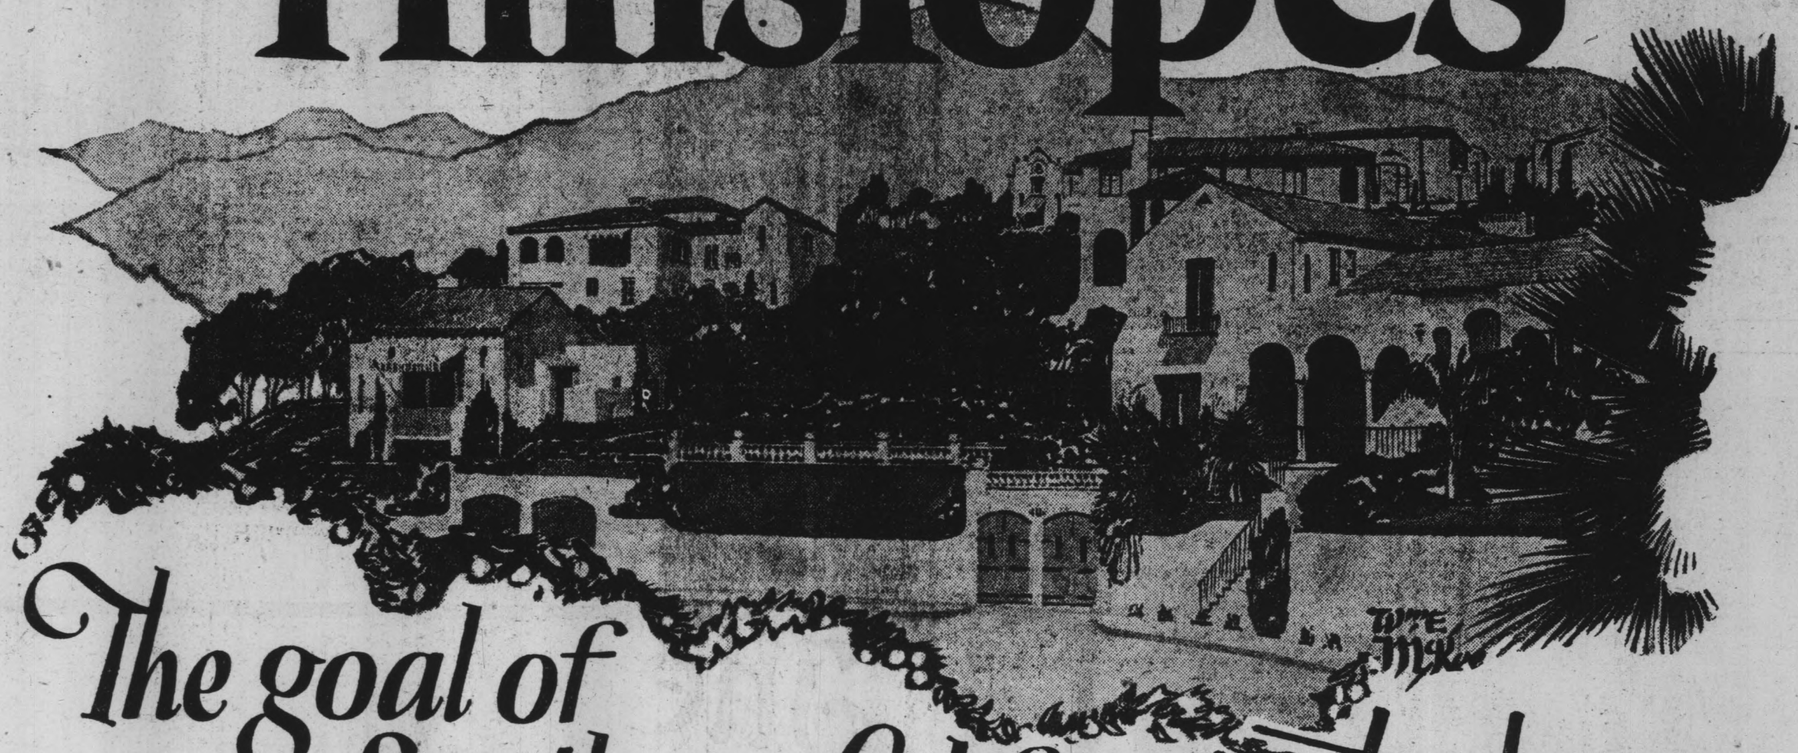
Bellehurst Hillslopes



The goal of Southern California today

$300,000 in sales in Bellehurst Hillslopes already, and the opening announcement appeared only one week ago!

This is conclusive proof that the intelligent buyers of Southern California have recognized at once the true value of these long coveted hillside lots in the heart of Glendale.

And today an even greater stream of people is sure to visit this unique and marvelously beautiful tract—for everybody knows that the location of Bellehurst Hillslopes is so unusual that values here are sure to mount to dizzy heights.

"For Bellehurst Hillslopes cover the outward curve formed by the southern point of the Verdugo Mountains just where these beautiful foothills pierce the City of Glendale to its EXACT CENTER. "As a result almost every lot has an absolutely unobstructed THREE-WAY VIEW—east, south and west, with the massive Verdugo Mountains in the background.

"NO CANYON WALLS HERE TO BLOCK THE VIEW"

This overwhelming demand for lots in Bellehurst Hillslopes is only an example of a well known principle governing city land values—for in every great city of the world high view-lots like these attract the wealthy and the lovers of the beautiful—people who know how to get the most out of life and who are prepared to pay simply fabulous prices for these rare spots that command inspiring panoramas.

And this is particularly true in Los Angeles, the goal of wealthy people from all over the world. There are thousands of acres of flat land within the city, most of it destined to increase in value, it is true, but the few rare areas of elevated land like this will inevitably become the chosen home places of the people whose success in life enables them to pay practically any price for the type of property they want.

And yet today AT OUR OPENING PRICES in Bellehurst Hillslopes you can buy magnificent big lots for

$1500 to $3000

—with a very few special bargains as low as $900—

THE OPENING SALE IS NOW ON—every lot is different in size, shape and outlook, but the supply is very limited. Surely you can find just the lot you want here now, but you will have to hurry if you wish a wide range of choice.
